The only Flanagan I have named Nancy is Rufus and Susan's daughter, but that is way too late. Rufus wasn't born until 1853 and was the son of Philip Flanagan and Elizabeth McLaughlin Flanagan. Philip was born about the turn of the century, but we don't know anything of his antecedents. I am a descendent of Isaac Wamper Flanagan, son of Roy Emory and grandson of Isaac Wamper, I, and great grandson of Philip.

Flanagan Peppus (Pepper) Tucker County.....

Author: Michael Wamsley Date: 16 Jul 2005 6:35 PM GMT

This is not so much a query, but I wanted to post info that has had me intrigued for some time in regards to my GGGrandmother, whom everyone lists as a "Mary A.E. Peppus" born in North Carolina in 1850?. I always thought Peppus could not be right, since I found vitually nothing on that name in any records. After a year and a half, I found the link I was looking for on Ancestry.com. Her husband was John C. Flanagan, Confederate veteran, born 1844 in Tucker County. I started seaching for variations of Peppus in the census records, and found her in the 1850 census, Randolph County, listed as Pepper. The writing is very clear. In the household, is, in this order, listed:

DAN BOSWELL JORDAN* Real Estate/Appraisals/Investments

P. O. Box 13644 • Houston, Texas 77219-3644 • Office: (713) 694-5875 • Res.: (713) 529-0310

Martha Pepper Age 40 Female Born in Virginia
William J. Vick Age 20 Male Born in N. Carolina
Mary A. E. Pepper Age 3 Female Born in N. Carolina
John Whitehead Age 30 Male Born in Virginia

This is a strange make-up for a household, and only adds more questions for me. Who is William Vick? Who is John Whitehead?

Living beside this household is John and Elizabeth Flanagan, born in 1787 and 1790, born in New Jersey and Viginia, respectively. This John would have been John C's grandfather, and makes the connection between John C the Civil War vet and Mary PEPPER apparent. I am not sure where Peppus came from, I am guessing it was a mispronunciation somewhere.

Like I said, this is not so much a query as it is hoping to help someone else looking at the same line. If anyone has info they would like to add, or if they feel something is not lining up here, please let me know, but the census find proves to me at least the correct spelling of my GGGrandmothers maiden name is actually PEPPER. Would love to chat with anyone digging into this line.... sorry so long.....

I know Mary Pepper dies in Elkins in 1926, but have no burial info. If anyone knows please respond.....

Patrick Flanagan (brn: 1800-05) - of "Roscommom - arrived in Canada in June 1834 aboard the Trafalgar - his age was given as 26 on the ships Manifest. The Trafalgar sailed out of Galway on April 30th 1834.

Also on board was, his son Patrick H Flanagan (1 yr old)
Bridget Conboy (brn: 1811 - 1815) of "Dennamon" Roscommon.
(Dennamon was given on the 1851 Census - may be Dunamon. - It is unclear from the ship's manifest if Bridget was his wife - or - if they married after they arrived in Canada.) This couple went on to have a large family once in New Brunswick.

Also on board was the following family. I've not yet been able to link Michael & Patrick Flanagan as brothers.

Michael Flanagan (age 40) & Mary Flanagan (age: 40)
their children:

Mary (age: 12)
Kitty (age 6)
Ann (age 5)
John (age: 4)
Michael (age 2)

Any help in locating the following families in Ireland or any family that left New Brunswick, would be truly appreciated.

These may be children of Joel Amos Flanagan who was in Yalobusha County, MS in 1880. I have only initials for a daughter, M. E. b. 1871, sons James, John and Joel A. Jr. but no Joseph. Joel Amos and wife Sarah Ann Harrison and some of their children moved to Texas around 1900. Joel was the son of John Caleb Flanagan, who died in Calhoun Co., MS in the 1870s.

Mary, I have some information on the Flanagans you are looking for. Edmond Hampton Flanagan was born about 1824 in Georgia. He married Paralee, b. 1825. The children I have for them are John Jasper, b. 1844; Mary L., b. 1846; William W., b. 1848; Susan Jenny, b. 1850; H. W., b. 1852; Sarah Frances, b. 1853; and Edwin, b. 1858; all born in Mississippi. The family was in Pontotoc Co. in 1850 and in Itawamba Co. in 1860. In 1880 H. W., his brother Edwin, his mother and two sisters lived in McNairy Co., TN. The record says that H. W. had one leg and was a cabinet maker. I think maybe Edmond's brother was William Flanagan, b. c. 1820 in Georgia and who also lived in Mississippi, Pontotoc Co. This is all I have. I don't think this is my Flanagan line, but I collect all the information on Flanagans that I can.

This is not so much a query, but I wanted to post info that has had me intrigued for some time in regards to my GGGrandmother, whom everyone lists as a "Mary A.E. Peppus" born in North Carolina in 1850?. I always thought Peppus could not be right, since I found vitually nothing on that name in any records. After a year and a half, I found the link I was looking for on Ancestry.com. Her husband was John C. Flanagan, Confederate veteran, born 1844 in Tucker County. I started seaching for variations of Peppus in the census records, and found her in the 1850 census, Randolph County, listed as Pepper. The writing is very clear. In the household, is, in this order, listed:

Martha Pepper	Age 40	Female	Born in Virginia
William J. Vick	Age 20	Male	Born in N. Carolina
Mary A. E. Pepper	Age 3	Female	Born in N. Carolina
John Whitehead	Age 30	Male	Born in Virginia

This is a strange make-up for a household, and only adds more questions for me. Who is William Vick? Who is John Whitehead?

Living beside this household is John and Elizabeth Flanagan, born in

Living beside this household is John and Elizabeth Flanagan, born in 1787 and 1790, born in New Jersey and Viginia, respectively. This John would have been John C's grandfather, and makes the connection between John C the Civil War vet and Mary PEPPER apparent. I am not sure where Peppus came from, I am guessing it was a mispronunciation somewhere.

Like I said, this is not so much a query as it is hoping to help someone else looking at the same line. If anyone has info they would like to add, or if they feel something is not lining up here, please let me know, but the census find proves to me at least the correct spelling of my GGGrandmothers maiden name is actually PEPPER. Would love to chat with anyone digging into this line.... sorry so long.....

I know Mary Pepper dies in Elkins in 1926, but have no burial info. If anyone knows please respond.....

This woman was born in January 1887 in the Dry Fork District of Tucker County, West Virginia. The only record I have found for her is the 1900 Tucker County census, where she is listed in the household of Elizabeth (Wimer) Cooper. Family tradition says that she was the baseborn child of Melissa Jane Cooper, who later married Martin VanBuren Bonner, but her father is unknown. She may also have been known by Delphie or Delphie M (middle name unknown). She supposedly later married a Flanagan and was last known to be living in Tennessee. If anyone has any information on her or her descendants, please contact me at kmallow@hotmail.com. Thanks.

Vivian
There were at least three groups of Flanagan's in VA circa 1800; several in and around Princess Anne County on the coast, several in Fluvanna/Louisa Counties and my family in the northwest outside Winchester in Frederick County. (And there was a big concentration in West Virginia which I'm sure you're aware of.) Haven't been able to track the family before then although it seems likely they came through PA from Phila., NYC or Baltimore headed for the Shenandoah Valley. George and Ann were the parents, son John who moved on to Belleville, IL and married there in 1835 and then to Victoria, TX where he died in 1850. George appears to have moved the family to the Roanoke vicinity in the early 1800's.
I've been in the DNA project and don't have any relationship to the WV Flanagan's. Don't know that any males descended from the other two groups have joined yet.

Dear Cousin:

I was "awakened" by running across one of your letters and decided it has been entirely too long in between letters to you!

I do hope you two and your family are all fine and healthy. As for me, I am about the same as I was when I last wrote you. I walk with a cane all the time, can't clean my house good alone so have a person come in twice a month and use the vacuum, etc., (and she's here this afternoon), but I can't stand upright too long at a time or walk too far. I do go in and out of my apartment to the car 3 or more times a day, which entails probably a block of walking by the time I get to my car, even though I do have an elevator from my floor to first.

It is so easy for me to get off balance and fall and when I fall I can't get up alone. I have had both knees replaced, had a mastectomy, plus other things and am "useless" if I fall.

I like my apartment very much for it is plenty big enough for me. It is 3 nice-sized rooms and shower bath. It is very comfortable for me and each apartment regulates the heat and central air in their own apartment. The morning paper is placed under the door, and we each have a mail box in the mail room so it is handy. Also, the dumpster is located in a small room off one of the first floor halls, with the Community Lunch Center at the end of that hall. In other words, if a person don't want or can't go outside, everything can be done inside the building, without putting on a coat. The only things that I get disturbed about is the parking. You just take any parking spot you find in the half circle drive into the property and with people coming in to help with baths, cleaning and washings, usually they take the ones closest to the building, making it sometimes hard to find a spot to park, especially if you need one close. Of course, there is no protection against the weather for your car so one never knows if your car is covered with snow or iced shut.

I am still working at the church two mornings a week but it is only a mile from my apartment, and if it's icey, Pastor calls me to stay home as it's slippery, etc.

My family is increasing - I now have the usual 5 daughters, 4 son-in-laws, 14 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren. They are all so dear to me and are so considerate with cards, letters, etc. This Christmas, Bev, my daughter in Carrollton, TX and her 4 children (all married and living in Texas) sent me a e-mail "Mailstation" so now I send and receive e-mail from my family.

We have had a mild winter until about a week ago and we got hit with a snowstorm, though we get the mild end of it. All schools around us was first postponed and then cancelled. I believe we may have had about 4 inches of snow.

Before the snow, we had many mild days where one didn't need much of a cover on when going out. Yesterday was nice and today hasn't been bad.

Well, I must close and get out of the girl's way in cleaning. Please write me when you get this so I will know how you are. I am sending a photo of myself for you to keep.

Love, Mildred Brodersen

Dear Hutton friends and family,

Sorry that I have been so inactive lately. Actually I have been working on a different line for a while. A few new people have contacted me with Hutton branches. Judy Bisig writes a very interesting letter below regarding Thomas Hutton and connections to Moses Hutton possibly. We know there was a Hill family near to the Huttons in 1820 and also other "stray" 1820 and 1830 Huttons that migrated west including William Hutton and Esau Hutton. Perhaps Moses and Thomas are related in some way to William and Esau. Of the four, only Moses stayed in Washington County, that we know of. Also I have a William Hutton (who is son of my Leonard Hutton) who married an Eliza Hill and stayed in Smyth County. I think the Wedding connection is of much interest here and may be a clue. Moses Hutton's daughter Sarah Jane (27 Jan 1814) married Augustus Wedding circa 27 Jan 1831.

Anyone who is interested in the Indiana and Missouri connections may find this helpful. I would like to explore it also. I hope we can continue to exchange information again!

Warm wishes,
Diane Costello
I am trying to connect my Hutton's to the Washington Co. VA Huttons. My gg-grandfather Moses H. Hutton's death certificate names his parent as Thomas C. Hutton & Mary Hill. The 1900 Indiana Census has Moses H. and his mother and father's BP as VA. There is a Thomas Hutton in the Washington Co. census in 1820 & 1830, but not in the 1840 census. My speculation on the ancestor's of Moses H. Hutton being associated with the Washington Co. VA Huttons is based on migration patterns with other families from Washington Co. VA. The data indicates that there is a relationship with Moses Hutton who married Nancy Jinks, and lived in Washington County, VA. I know that several of this Moses Hutton's children migrated to Missouri. I also know that Sarah Jane Hutton, the daughter of Moses Hutton married Augustus Wedding and they migrated to Owen County, Indiana.

Living in Owen County, Indiana in 1840 were Thomas Hutton, Moses Hutton, and Augustus Wedding. In the 1850 Census Augustus Wedding 40 & wife Jane 34, both from VA. plus 6 of their children are living in Putnam Co. IN. The oldest was born in VA & the next 5 were born in IN. In the Owen Co. Indiana 1850 Census are Moses H. Hutton, his wife Eliza and their 4 children; also, Thomas Hutton, his wife Mary, and their three children. There is also Elijah Hutton 28, from VA, his wife V. (Vernilda) and an infant daughter. Moses H. Hutton and Elijah may have been brothers, as Moses H. named a son Elijah. Also reinforcing the relationship between the Augustus Wedding family and Moses H. Hutton, one of Moses H.'s sons was named Augustus. According to the ages of Augustus' children in 1850, the oldest girl Elenor E.J. 14, was born in VA in 1836, and the next child Mary E. 11 was born in IN in 1839, so they must have left Virginia between 1836 and 1839.

In the 1860 Census Thomas Hutton and his family are still in Owen Co., Indiana. Augustus Wedding and Moses H. Hutton and their families are now in Macon Co., Missouri living close to each other. In the 1870 Census Augustus and his family are still in Macon Co., MO, but Moses H. is no longer there. However, Moses H. Hutton and his family are in the 1880 Census in Putnam County, Indiana, where Augustus Wedding and his family were living in 1850. I have not been able to see the 1870 Indiana Census, but speculate that Moses H. Hutton was in Indiana in 1870. I will greatly appreciate any ideas or information regarding these families.

I believe early NC Census records show that Francis Coley born 1798 in Halifax Co., NC., was one of the sons of Francis Coley born 1757 in Charles City Co., Va., and grandson of Robert Coley (sold 80 acres Feb 1771 in Westover Parish, Charles City Co., bought 100 acres Aug 1772 in Halifax Co., NC.) died 1785.

Hi Susan!

I'm not sure if I talked with you before or not. I do live in VA, and Henry Harrison Hood was my Great Great Grandfather. I am descended through his son, Thomas Dutton Hood.

I do have some further information (from other sources) which may be helpful. If you would like to e-mail me, I would be happy to share what I have with you. I have some information on Sinora Francis (Fanny) Coley's father, mother, one grandfather and one grandmother. I have Sinora's grandmother's line back several generations.

Have a great day!

JOHN CHARLES VAN DYKE—New Brunswick, (George St.) —University Professor. Born at New Brunswick, on April 21, 1856; son of John and Mary Dix (Strong) Van Dyke.

John C. Van Dyke has written the story of his ancestry, with all the color of a romance, in a brouchure issued in December, 1915, for private circulation. The first of the line of whom there is any record here is "Thomas Janse, the Immigrant," who came from Holland to the shores of Long Island toward the close of the sixteenth century—the first far-adventurer in the family for several centuries. He was an old man at the time, and he brought his large family of sons and daughters with him. He landed at New Amsterdam, which at that time, in its oscillating rule between the Dutch and the English, was in control of the Dutch; but he soon moved to the heights of Broekelene (Brooklyn). There he and his wife Sytie are duly recorded in 1661 as members of the First Reformed Church. Their son, Jan the Second, went to the locality known as New Utrecht and was among the first of the settlers there, became the "Sergeant of the Town"—a position which was probably in those days the equivalent of the Mayor of these days—and was also conspicuous in church work. His heirs sold his farm there in 1675 for 2500 guilders.

His son Jan the Third, still made New Utrecht his home however; and in the local annals appears the record of his service in the militia as a Lieutenant. It was not long before the British drove the Dutch out of New Amsterdam; but from the English Earl of Bellemont, the new governor, who had denounced the execution by the British of Leisler, the Dutch leader, as murder, he in 1700, accepted a commission as Captain of the Militia.

Meanwhile New Utrecht was growing in population and because it had probably become uncomfortably civilized, Jan the Fourth, his son, came over the river to New Brunswick. There he was listed as one of Colonel Harmens New Jersey Militia, and his name appears among those who made up the first Board of Aldermen of the city of New Brunswick. The city, populated by immigrants from Long Island and Dutch from Albany, soon became too crowded for Jan, and he moved to the less settled valley of the Mill Stone. He came to be recognized as one of the substantial land owners of the county. He was a contributor to the building in 1751 of the square stone church in which Theodorus Frelinghuysen preached. Domine Van Harlingen who preached there later was less popular than the great Frelinghuysen not because of his smaller ability but because he preached only in Dutch and many of the young people could not understand the language.

Jan the Fifth was a Church Warden of Harlingen in 1754 and either he or his father was one of the founders of the church there. He was one of the Minute Men of that locality in May '75 in Captain Vroom's Company, Second Battalion, Somerset County Militia.

Jan's brother, Ruloff, who was a deputy to the Provincial Congress and a member of the Committee of Safety, his brother, Abram, a Lieutenant of Grenadiers. Jan's own son, Abram the younger, his cousins and nephews and relatives by marriage were all in arms against the King and for the country. But there was one heart breaking exception. Jan's older son had been a magistrate and was a Colonel in the British Army at the time of the outbreak of hostilities; and, refusing to break his oath of allegiance and remaining with the British, became famous in the Van Dyke annals as "The Family Tory." His father required that he deed back the farm he had given him, which Colonel John did promptly enough on the understanding that in case he was killed in the war his wife and children should have it back again. Unwilling to fight against his own people and brothers, he asked to be transferred to the British Navy and he was taken prisoner and confined at Philadelphia till his wife secured his release. Jan the Fifth gave his life to the cause on the battle field of Monmouth.

Abram the Sixth, next in the line, was the half-brother of Colonel John The Tory, but they grew up together and seemed to be close companions till the differences of the war separated them. Abram the Sixth was one of the sons of Jan the Fifth, who took up arms for the American cause. One tradition is that after the close of the War a horse galloped up to the porch of his home with a rider so ragged that his wife, with the fear of the Hessians in her soul, sprang for her flint lock to defend herself and kept him pounding at the door till he had convinced her that he was her husband returned from the War. He subsequently became a local magistrate of his district and perhaps held other county offices.

Abram the Seventh was distinguished in the family annals for his marriage to Sarah, the daughter of John Honeyman, a famous spy of the Revolutionary era. Honeyman had served under Gen. Wolfe at Quebec, but later on, sympathizing with the American revolt, he sought an introduction to Washington. There were several interviews between himself and the Chief; and it was arranged that he was to act the part of a spy for the American cause in his part of New Jersey. When he had learned any matter of importance he was to allow himself to be captured by the Americans. This was all carried out as arranged. After he went over into the British lines Washington made an ortentatious offer of a reward for his capture but coupled with the injunction that the Tory be brought unharmed to headquarters. The capture was made as arranged near Trenton and the Chief saw Honeyman alone for half an hour—then ordered him to the guard house. During the night a slight fire started in the camp and the guards rushed to put it out. When they returned the prisoner was not there. Two days later Washington had recrossed the icy Delaware and won the battle of Trenton. Honeyman was directly responsible for the battle.

Later when Honeyman's escape became known a band of local patriots attacked his home at Griggstown with the idea that he had taken refuge there. They found only the spy's wife and small children; and to stem the anger of the mob she asked for the leader to come forth. Major Baird stepped out and she handed him a paper, the reading of which quickly dissolved the crowd. It was Washington's order that she and her children be protected from all harm though no protection was to be accorded to Honeyman himself. All through the war Honeyman was the object of the anathema of his patriotic neighbors while he played the spy for Washington. But after the War Washington and several of his generals came to visit him—and the story was out.

Dr. Van Dyke's father was for five years Prosecutor of the Pleas of Middlesex county. He was subsequently for two years Mayor of the city of New Brunswick; and serving later (1847-'51) as a member of Congress, he saw the stirring time of the war between the United States and Mexico, to which he was bitterly opposed. At the first National Convention of the Republican Party in 1856, when the name of Lincoln was proposed for Vice President, Mr. Van Dyke, then a Justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, opposed the selection on the ground that Lincoln was too great a man for any office but that of President, then predicted his nomination in 1860 and was at the convention of 1860 that made Mr. Lincoln President. He subsequently moved to Minnesota where he became a member of the State Legislature and was afterwards appointed Judge of the Third Judicial District of Minnesota.

Dr. Van Dyke himself is a writer of large repute and has been Professor of the History of Art at Rutgers College since 1889. He has also been University Lecturer at Columbia, Harvard, Princeton and other institutions of learning. He has been Librarian of the Sage Library at New Brunswick since 1878 and is a member of the New Jersey State Board of Education and Vice President of the National Institute of Arts and Letters. He was educated at various secondary schools, privately tutored, and prepared for the Military Academy at West Point but declined the appointment. He studied at Columbia University and in Rutgers College and for many years made a specialty in Europe of art studies. He was admitted to the New York Bar but never practised.

Dr. Van Dyke is a member of many societies and clubs, including in New York the University, the Century, and the Authors. His writings have been on art subjects, on nature, history and criticism. He has also been the editor of many art magazines including "The Studio" and the "Art Review." His notable books on Art are: "Art for Art's Sake" (1893), "History of Painting" (1894), "Meaning of Pictures" (1903), "Studies in Pictures" (1903), "The Old Dutch and Flemish Masters" (1895), "New Guides to Old Masters" (1914). His books on nature include: "Nature for Its Own Sake" (1898), "The Desert" (1901), "The Opal Sea" (1906), "The Mountain" (1916). He has published over thirty volumes on various subjects.

Fifth Generation

92. Joris[5] Van Kouwenhoven was born about 1690–95, presumably a son of Gerrit Willemse and Aeltje Van Kouwenhoven. Little is known concerning

*Through an oversight, this entry was omitted in its proper sequence (Rec. v.71, p.275) but is introduced at this point to show the involved family relationships. Both Gerrit and his wife had Kouwenhoven mothers; a brother and three sisters of Gerrit married Kouwenhoven cousins and five of his 12 children married Kouwenhovens, four of whom were brothers and sisters.

his parents, and no record of any children for them has been found; however, justification for placing Joris as their son was explained in detail in a previous article (Rec. v.71, p.157). He resided in Brooklyn and on May 26, 1719, he married in the Dutch Church in Flatbush, Altje Luyster who was born there about 1695, a daughter of Cornelis Pieterse & Sarah Catharina (Nevius) Luyster (HSYB:1898, p.99; Nevius Gen. 1900, p.593).

Children: 7

315. i. (prob.) Sarah[6] b. abt. 1720; d. in 1812. No record of birth or baptism for her or her brother, Gerrit, has been found but they were probably b. in Flatbush (where the family lived before moving to Monmouth County, New Jersey), where the Dutch Church Baptisms are missing from 1710 to 1721, inclusive. She was probably named for her maternal grandmother, Sarah Luyster, and one of her own daughters named Sarah b. May 21, 1758, mar. Hendrick Smock. In a Smock Bible record, after the date of death of Sarah Smock, Mar. 25, 1828, the following notation appears: "Sarah Lane, daughter of Aaron Lane and Sarah Cowenhoven, m. Nov. 8, 1780, her cousin Hendrick Smock who was a captain in the Revolutionary War and also a member of N.J. Provincial Assembly." As we know from other published records that Col. John Smock mar. Elizabeth Cowenhoven, a daughter of Joris and Altje, then Sarah must have been her sister (NJMis:2:316). On May 17, 1743, she mar. in Middletown, N.J., Aaron Lane b. there abt. 1719; d. abt. 1805, a son of Matthias & Ann (Schenck) Lane. In 1746, this family moved to Readington, Hunterdon County, N.J., where most of their children were born:

FLORIDA, DECEMBER 7, 1880

CIRCUMSTANCES VERY UNEXPECTED PUTS IT IN MY HEART TO WRITE TO YOU. YOU ARE AWARE OF THE REPORT OF YOUR POISONING YOUR FATHER. IT WENT THROUGH OUR TOWN LIKE WILD FIRE. OF COURSE WAS CREDITED BY A FEW BUT IF YOU HAD BEEN TO HAVE WITNESSED THER REJOICING WHEN IT WAS CONTRACTED(SIC) IT WOULD HAVE DONE YOUR HEART GOOD.

WHY MY DEAR YOUNG MAN, YOU NEVER HAD AS MANY FRIENDS AS AT THIS TIME. WE ARE ALL ASKING WHO WOULD DARE TO HAVE UNDERTAKEN TO START SUCH A REPORT. WE ALL THINK CRIME IS SO GREAT IT CAN HARDLY BE PUNISHED ENOUGH, TO ATTEMPT TO RUIN ONE WHOSE FAMILY AND FAMILY CONNECTIONS HAVE ALWAYS BEEN ABOVE REPROACH AND THEIR NAME WITHOUT A STAIN AND STOOD FIRST AMONG ALL WHO KNEW THEM. FOR MY OWN PART, THE HILL FAMILY HAVE BEEN AMONGST MY BEST AND DEAREST FRIENDS AND I THINK I FELT FOR YOU WHEN THESE REPORTS CAME OUT AS MUCH AS YOUR NEAREST RELATIVE, SO YOU WILL EXCUSE ME FOR SENDING YOU A FEW LINES TO CONGRATULATE YOU AND YOUR FAMILY .

YOUR FATHER I HAVE HAD GREAT RESPECT FOR AND WHEN I HEARD HE HAD PASSED AWAY I FELT SAD INDEED BUT I TRUST HE HAS GONE TO A BETTER PLACE…BETTER COUNTRY WHERE THERE IS NO MORE SICKNESS ETC. ETC.

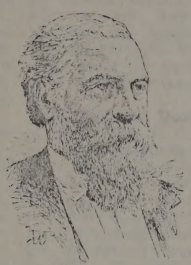
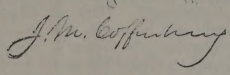
COFFINBERRY, James M., jurist, was born May 16, 1818, at Mansfield, O. His father, Andrew Coffinberry, was a distinguished lawyer of Mansfield, admitted to the bar in 1813, practising until a few days before his death, May 11, 1856. He was widely known and greatly esteemed. His quaint wit and genial manners gave him access to the hearts of all classes. He was called the "Good Count Coffinberry" by the younger members of the profession, from some real or supposed resemblance to the illustrious German jurist and publicist, Count or Baron Putfendorf. The title was recognized as being so appropriate that it stuck to him for life, and many never learned that it was not his real name. George Lewis Coffinberry, grandfather of James M., was a Virginian of German lineage, who served as a soldier in the revolutionary war, afterward removing to Mansfield, O., where he died at an advanced age. James M. Coffinberry received such an education as was obtainable in the district school of a pioneer country village. He studied law with his father, and was admitted to the bar in 1841, opening an office in partnership with his father in Maumee City. His abilities and integrity were early recognized, and secured his election as prosecuting attorney for Lucas county, which position he filled for several years. In 1845 he removed to Hancock county, and for about ten years practiced his profession successfully, at the same time editing and publishing the Findlay "Herald." In 1855 he removed to Cleveland, and entered into a large and lucrative practice, taking a high rank at a bar embracing amongst its members some of the most eminent lawyers of the state. In 1861 he was elected judge of the court of common pleas. His charges to the jury were models for clearness, directness, and logical compactness. No legal opinion pronounced by him was ever reversed on review by a higher court. After retiring from the bench, he returned to the practice of his profession, but was soon compelled to cease its activities by reason of failing health. He devoted many of his leisure hours to scientific reading and investigation. He was a member of the city council for two years, and president of that body. Formerly a whig, in 1856 he allied himself with the democrats, and to the time of his death uniformly supported the candidates and policy of that party. At the breaking out of the rebellion, he was chairman of the democratic central committee of Cuyahoga county, and warmly espoused the Union cause, labored assiduously to promote the recruiting service, and was largely influential in rallying the democratic party in northern Ohio to the zealous support of the war to vindicate the authority of the constitution and laws. He was principal secretary of the great Union convention of Ohio, presided over by Thomas Ewing, which nominated David Tod for governor on a platform embodying the Crittenden compromise resolutions. He remained a conservative Union man during the war, but in private conversations disapproved of some of the more radical war measures as being unconstitutional and of dangerous precedent. For several years he was the standing candidate of his party for representative in congress and common pleas judge, but was in no sense a politician. On the evening of Apr. 18, 1875, while returning with his wife from the marriage of their son, Henry D., to a daughter of Gen. Geo. W. Morgan, their carriage was struck by the cars, and he suffered the loss of a leg. Owing to declining health and the misfortunes resulting from this accident, he was obliged to decline to engage in litigation in the courts; yet a large share of his clients followed him to the retreat of his private residence for counsel and such other legal service as he could perform for them, up to a few weeks of his death. In addition to this labor he personally attended to the details of his large real estate interests in the city. He contributed considerable to the literature of the times. He was a clear and forcible writer. He left surviving him a widow, who before marriage, was Anna M. Gleason. They were married in Lucas county, O., in January 18[illegible]. There are two living children; a son, Henry D., an extensive stockholder in and president of the Cleveland ship building company. This son served honorably through the war as an officer in the Mississippi gunboat flotilla. The other child, a daughter, Mary E., is the wife of Stephen E. Brooks, a prominent business man of Cleveland, who is postmaster of West Side, Cleveland. Judge Coffinberry died in Cleveland Nov. 29, 1891.





HILL, Nicholas, soldier and clergyman, was born near Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 22, 1760. His father and grandfather were natives of Londonderry, Ireland, and came to this country a few years previous to the revolution. An incident in his early childhood served to kindle the spirit of patriotism and to awaken a spirit of intense hatred toward the British, which was intensified from year to year until the close of the revolution. When he was but eight years of age and his brother Henry but six, their mother was compelled to stand by with them and witness the severe whipping of their father by a British officer for a real or fancied insult to their sovereign. Two years after this in the winter of 1776–77, Nicholas, being but ten years of age, enlisted with his brother as drummer boys; both determined to avenge the cruel treatment of their father, and both served faithfully in numerous engagements until the close of the war. The record of their service calls for five years, although they actually served seven. The original discharge of Nicholas, signed by Gen. Washington, dated June 8, 1783, states that "Nicholas Hill, sergeant in the 1st New York regiment, having faithfully served the United States for five years, and being enlisted for the war only, is hereby discharged from the American army." This is countersigned by Lieut.-Col. Cornelius Van Dyck, stating that "The above Sergt. Nicholas Hill has been honored with the badge of merit for five years' faithful service." Sergt. Hill served in Capt. Benjamin Hicks's company. He was in the principal engagements of the war including the terrible winter at Valley Forge. He was relieved from much of the suffering of that campaign through the kindness of Baron Steuben, who took him into his own tent, and supplied him with food and clothes, and finally offered to adopt him as a son, but as Nicholas was looking forward with bright anticipations to the meeting with his parents at the close of the war, not knowing the fact that both parents had died soon after he left home. Had he known this he would gladly have accepted the generous offer. He became attached to his command, and through the kindness of his distinguished patron, was permitted to witness the surrender at Yorktown.

TRELL, Calvert Byron, manufacturer
entor, was born in Westerly, R. I., Aug. 21,
His early education was received in the pub-ols. When nineteen years of age he appren-imself to a firm of machinists in Phœnix, nd remained with the firm for thirteen years,
rd in the capacity of employing contractor.
this period his inventive genius was brought ion, and he made many improvements in ving tools and machinery. The successes followed his efforts were such that he deter-on beginning business for himself. A partner-is formed with Nathan Babcock, and under name of Cottrell & Babcock the manufacmachinery in general was entered upon, but ly the firm devoted itself entirely to the proof printing presses and printing mechanism.
ter date Mr. Cottrell determined to devote exclusively to invention and improvement in matters belonging to printing press manufacture. Among the first of his devices was an improvement on the air spring, for reversing the bed of the press.
The peculiar feature was the yielding plunger, a vacuum valve, and a governing attachment. The air springs, as applied by him to cylinder presses, lessened in a marked degree the jar of the press in its action. His inventions, increasing as they did the capacity of the printing press from twenty-five to thirty per cent. for fine as well as fast work, were so far-reaching in their effects that they immediately brought Mr.
Cottrell to the notice of the printing and mechanical world as one of the leading inventors
ay. Among his many important inventions apeless delivery, for delivering the printed fter they are printed. The patent hinged ames, patent attachment for controlling the um of the cylinder, insuring perfect register peed, a patent sheet-delivery for delivering ts in front of the cylinder without the use of fly; a patent rotary color printing press, from a roll of paper, and printing 250,000 1x13, in three colors per day. One of his nd most successful inventions is a shifting for a Web perfecting press, which prevents n the second cylinder, and enables a press, as heretofore been capable of printing only inary newspaper, to execute the finest class rated printing. This invention was generally and successfully operated. Mr. Cottrell has nted over one hundred patents in this coun-Europe. The first one was granted in 1858, ent patents were nearly all on improvements
ing presses. In 1880 the firm of Cottrell & was dissolved, Mr. Babcock retiring, and ing with him his three sons, all of them inheriting the father's genius for invention, Mr. Cottrell continued the business under the firm name of C. B. Cottrell & Sons. The new firm doubled the capacity of the works in Westerly, and entered upon a degree of prosperity eminently satisfactory. As far back as 1867 Mr. Cottrell opened an office at No. 8 Spruce street, New York city, and since that year has been the constant occupant. The extensive works, located in Westerly, R. I., are an evidence of the busy life he has led, and the accomplished facts which bear the impress of his name.

COCHRAN, David Henry, educator, was born at Springville, N. Y., July 5, 1828. He was graduated from Hamilton college in the class of 1850, and his subsequent life has been devoted to education. For over a quarter of a century he has been thoroughly identified with the Polytechnic institute of Brooklyn, of which he became president in 1864. The Polytechnic, under his direction, has developed from a school of academic grade into a complete college, with full powers and privileges, and with an annual income from tuition of over $120,000. He was, at the time of accepting the presidency of the Polytechnic institute, a teacher of fourteen years' experience, having been successively professor at the Clinton liberal institute, principal of Fredonia academy, and professor and president of the Albany state normal school. He has made a careful study, on the ground, of the educational system of Europe, and has been successful as a lecturer. In 1862 the degree of Ph.D. was conferred upon him by the regents of the University of the state of New York, and in 1869 the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by Hamilton college, of which institution he has been for a number of years trustee. During his professional life Dr. Cochran has been proffered the presidency of several prominent colleges and universities, but declined all with a view to give his life to the school which he has created, and been so successful in maintaining.

TRANSCRIPTION OF A LETTER WRITTEN TO

CIRCUMSTANCES VERY UNEXPECTED PUTS IT IN MY HEART TO WRITE TO YOU. YOU ARE AWARE OF THE REPORT OF YOUR POISONING YOUR FATHER. IT WENT THROUGH OUR TOWN LIKE WILD FIRE. OF COURSE WAS CREDITED BY A FEW BUT IF YOU HAD BEEN TO HAVE WITNESSED THER REJOICING WHEN IT WAS CONTRACTED(SIC) IT WOULD HAVE DONE YOUR HEART GOOD.

WHY MY DEAR YOUNG MAN, YOU NEVER HAD AS MANY FRIENDS AS AT THIS TIME. WE ARE ALL ASKING WHO WOULD DARE TO HAVE UNDERTAKEN TO START SUCH A REPORT. WE ALL THINK CRIME IS SO GREAT IT CAN HARDLY BE PUNISHED ENOUGH, TO ATTEMPT TO RUIN ONE WHOSE FAMILY AND FAMILY CONNECTIONS HAVE ALWAYS BEEN ABOVE REPROACH AND THEIR NAME WITHOUT A STAIN AND STOOD FIRST AMONG ALL WHO KNEW THEM. FOR MY OWN PART, THE HILL FAMILY HAVE BEEN AMONGST MY BEST AND DEAREST FRIENDS AND I THINK I FELT FOR YOU WHEN THESE REPORTS CAME OUT AS MUCH AS YOUR NEAREST RELATIVE, SO YOU WILL EXCUSE ME FOR SENDING YOU A FEW LINES TO CONGRATULATE YOU AND YOUR FAMILY .

YOUR FATHER I HAVE HAD GREAT RESPECT FOR AND WHEN I HEARD HE HAD PASSED AWAY I FELT SAD INDEED BUT I TRUST HE HAS GONE TO A BETTER PLACE…BETTER COUNTRY WHERE THERE IS NO MORE SICKNESS ETC. ETC.

To whom it may concern:

This is the evidence that I have found that Stephen Mosher who married Catharina Rauh and made his will in Albany county, New York 16 October 1820 (proved 26 August 1824) was a son of Hugh[4] (Hugh[3], Nicholas[2], Hugh[1] of Rhode Island and Dartmouth, Massachusetts) and his wife Sarah Devol:

1 Stephen married Catharina Rauh, presumably the daughter of Wilhelmus and Anna (Winnegar), who were sponsors at the baptism of their daughter Annatje 27 August 1769 in St. Pauls Lutheran Church, Redhook, Dutchess Co., NY. Stephen and Catharina's children included Wilhelmus, Annatje (Anna), Hugh, and Sarah, the last two being the names of Stephen's presumed parents. Except for Anna, Stephen's children are named in his will (Albany Co. Surrogate Records 6:125).

2 Other early Moshers in Albany Co. came from Dutchess Co. All the taxpayers there except Hugh from 1761 to the time Stephen married can be eliminated as his possible father; Adley, there 1761-63, went to Hardyston, Sussex Co., N. J., where his estate was administered in 1775.
Benjamin[4] (Philip[3], Joseph[2], Hugh[1]) had a son Stephen, born 22 July 1763 (Dartmouth, MA VR).
Caleb had no son Stephen (Cowsn, Dutchess Co. Wills, 2:18).
Ephraim had a son Stephen born 22 Feb. 1757 (Neb. and Midw. Gen. Record, 15:23-24).
George's children born in Dartmouth, MA, 1742-55, include no Stephen.
Samuel, son of George, was born in Dartmouth 9 Mar. 1742.
Wiliam's children, listed by several descendants, include no Stephen.

3 Two other sons of Hugh[4] Mosher married probable relatives of Stehnen's wife Catharina Rauh: Cornelius married Rosanna Roe, and Christopher married Catharine Rowe.

4 A letter from Grace Polgreen, granddaughter of Hugh[4] Mosher's son Cornelius, contributed several bits of information that seem to link Stephen Mosher to Hugh[4]. Her letters are found in the Clelia Duel Mosher Papers, deposited in the New York State Library in Albany. In one she said that an oath by "Stephen" Mosher was taken in Albany county 22 May 1805 but she wondered if he might have been Cornelius Stephen or vice versa. In another letter she said that Wilhelmus Mosher died suddenly in Coeymans 6 August 1832, leaving a son Hugh. It would appear that she mentioned this because Wilhelmus was a close relative.

Also, DBJ was told that he, W.K. was on the train to Mexico City when the news came that the U. S. President Mckinley had be assinated. This would be 1901. Perhaps this was his first trip to Mexico City to open up a branch Canvan and Tarp business for his Brother in law, O. D. Tucker, JR.

Marriage Notes for WILLIAM HILL and NORA FLANAGAN:
For many years I, Vivian Mae Hill Jordan took the marriage date that I assumed my Father, W.K.Hill had put in the Funeral Home Register that I have in my possession. Finally I took it upon myself to use the information that had been sent me of clippings from the Capitol Hill, OK newspaper that my Mother, Nora Blanche Flanagan Hill and my Father had been married in her big sisters' (Bessie Flanagan Albright) home in St. Louis, MO. Much to my surprise the record showed that my Dad had entered the wrong dates!!!

Personel knowledge of Vivian Mae Hill Jordan: My brother, William Kline Hill, Jr. was born in Torreon, Mex and died there. He was the first born of my parents, W. K. and Nora Flanagan Hill. Because of the practice of the Mexican officials, after a certain number of years, a body or remains where removed from the grave and put in the catacombs. My parents did not want their child to be removed so my Father had concrete poured around the little coffin!

I first heard of this ancestor who had been a Drummer Boy from my Aunt Lot Hill Tucker, my Daddy's big sister. She visited us several times that I remember. When I was a teen ager she showed me this little book and said it was about our ancestors and that this Drummer Boy had been in the Rev. War. I found out later this was true and that he had come out of the War as a Sergeant.

Many years later while working in Clayton Genealogical Library, I found a 'cousin' from IL that had a 'Hill Memoranda' , a chronicle of the births, marriages and deaths of the Nicholas Hill family. It had been compiled by Nicholas' 15th and last child. Seems that many of the family had received copies but our branch had not. I copied it and have put copies in Clayton Library, Houston, TX; Salt Lake Library in UT; DAR Library in Washington, DC.

Nicholas as a grown man was a farmer, blacksmith and a Preacher after the teachings of Bishop Asbury, Methodist. A Rev. Dempster is connected in several ways with Nicholas Hill. It is a very tangled case of misinformation as I will try to explain. in Mar 1802, Nicholas Hill bought 200 acs from a John Watts but he reserved 10 of these acs for Rev. Dempster. Nicholas did not record this purchase for several years. When he did it specified that 10 acs of Lot 119 in Warrenbush was to be reserved for Rev. Dempster. I presume for a church and burial grounds. Through the years both the Hill family and Dempster families used this land for their burials. They were good friends. Many years into my research of the Hill family I came across #0532962, "Marriages of Rev. James Dempster of Montgomery Co., NY" at the Family History Library in Salt Lake City and what I found was most disturbing. It seems that the wives and children of Rev. Dempster that were named were the wives and children of Nicholas Hill!! All of this I could prove from the Bible pages of Nicholas Hill that had been sent into the National Archives when Nicholas was applying for a pension. I sent a correction to Salt Lake but I don't know if it was acted upon. The last straw to this saga is that the fourth and last wife of Nicholas decided that she would move the remains of the Hill family from Florida to Schenectady, NY Vale Cemetery. I just hope that these dear departed souls are not too mixed up in Heaven.

wrote. "I need not give you his character; you know he is a sullen man that values him enough, and much believes that his knowledge and reputation in arms fits him for the title of Highness and the office of Protector better than Mr. Richard Cromwell's skill in horseracing . . . doth. You know, besides, that the only ties that have hitherto kept him from grumbling have been the vanity of constancy to his professions, and his affection to Cromwell's person . . . Nothing of either of them can now stick with him. The way to deal with him is, by some fit person to show him plainly, and to give him all imaginable security for it, that he shall better find all his ends (those of honour, power, profit, and safety) with the king than in any other way he can take."

Monck's cousin, Sir John Grenville, and his brother, Nicholas Monck, were sent to seek his support. They delivered a letter from Charles "I cannot think you wish me ill," the exiled monarch wrote, "for you have no reason to do so; and the good I expect from you will bring so great benefit to your country and yourself, that I cannot think you will decline my interest . . . If you once resolve to take my interest to heart, I will leave the way and manner of declaring it entirely to your own judgement, and will comply with the advice you shall give me."

The visitors were received and heard, but Monck kept his decision to himself. He did, however, declare privately that he favored a full and free Parliament and the known laws and liberties of the nation. When a short while later he announced his stand on the side of Parliament rather than with the army leaders, Parliament made him commander-in-chief of the army. Monck promptly secured large areas of Scotland for the cause of Parliament as opposed to those who favored military rule. In a little more than a month after Monck assumed command of the army, the garrison of Portsmouth declared for the return of Parliamentary rule; within ten days the fleet made a similar pledge. A revolution in the Irish army placed the government there in the hands of Monck's supporters. Troops in London ceased resistance and submitted to Parliament.

Monck now proceeded to advance into England. Opposition crumbled as he approached and on February 3, 1660, he entered London. All the time he very wisely kept his own counsel concerning his feelings about the king. This silence confused even the keenest observers. Hyde and the royalist agents in England could not determine whether Monck's real goal was the same as theirs. His actions and his words–or lack of them–were completely contradictory. No one knew whether he meant to serve King or Parliament–Cromwell's Parliament.

Parliament, perhaps courting his favor because of the suspicion with which they certainly regarded him, heaped honors upon him. He was elected to the Council of State, received official approval of all his past actions, was given a grant of £1000 a year and an honorary office in London. At the same time he was ordered to put down certain rebellions among the people of London. He carried out a part of these orders but failed to comply with those instructions which seemed unfair to him and to the men in his command. Parliament insisted upon the execution of its orders. Monck submitted, knowing quite well that this action would turn his troops against Parliament, "This," he told a member of Parliament, "was a trick you knew not of, and I assure you that I could not have done my business so soon without it, and possibly not at all." With the army wholeheartedly behind him, Monck was now in a position to dictate to Parliament. He ordered the seating of those members who had been driven out in 1648 at the time of the downfall of MONCK, CHRISTOPHER, second Duke of Albemarle (1653-1688), was the only surviving son of George Monck, one of the original Lords Proprietors. He succeeded his father at the latter's death in 1670. In 1673 he was appointed colonel of an infantry regiment, and two years later became a member of the Privy Council and lord lieutenant of Devonshire and Essex. He was designated chancellor of Cambridge University and a member of the Board of Trade and Foreign Plantations in 1682. Late in 1687 Monck was made governor-general of Jamaica where he died early in the fall of the following year. His wife was the daughter of Henry Cavendish, Duke of Newcastle, but there were no children. After a lengthy court hearing the estate was given to his kinsman, John Grenville, Earl of Bath.

MOORE, ELIZABETH AMY, was the daughter of Thomas Amy and sister of Thomas, Jr., and Ann Amy Trott. The Amys were probably related to the Colletons as the original Proprietor, Sir John Colleton was married to Katherine, daughter of William Amy, of Exton, Devonshire. Elizabeth and her sister claimed the share of their brother at his death in 1707. In 1729, at the time of the sale of the charter to the crown, she was described simply as a widow living in London.

SMITH, HENRY, was one of four persons to whom James Bertie conveyed his Carolina share in trust in 1728. On the occasion of the surrender of the charter in 1729, he is described as being of Caversham, Oxfordshire. There are numerous references to persons named Smith in the records of the time, and it is impossible to determine which of them was the holder of the Carolina share.

GEORGE MONCK, DUKE OF ALBEMARLE (1608-1670)

George Monck was born December 6, 1608, near Torrington in Devonshire in a mansion whose ruins still stand. He was the second son of Sir Thomas Monck and his wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir George Smith. We know nothing of Monck's early formal education, but judging from his writings he left school at an early age. When he was seventeen he enlisted for service in an expedition to Cadiz under command of his relative, Sir Richard Grenville, grandson of the man of the same name who commanded the fleet for the early English attempts at exploration and settlement on Roanoke Island. For valuable service performed "with great hazard to his life" Monck seems to have been awarded an ensign's commission.

When he was twenty-one he entered the service of the Dutch whom he served well for nearly ten years. A scheme underway in England about the time he returned, for the colonization of Madagascar by a group of men who formed a company, attracted his attention for a time, but the outbreak of trouble in Scotland soon drew him back into military service. He became a lieutenant colonel in the foot regiment of the Earl of Newport.

At the outbreak of the Irish rebellion he was placed in command of a regiment which landed at Dublin in 1642. Following a series of brilliant victories during the next sixteen months, Monck returned to England upon the death of his father. He was highly praised and received in high circles, even though he had refused to take the oath of fealty to Charles I which was required of members of the Irish army returning to England. He had an interview with the King at which he frankly criticized the way the war had been planned and conducted.

Monck returned to the army just before it suffered defeat at Nantwick early in 1644. In the summer he was brought before the House of Commons, charged with high treason, and imprisoned in the Tower of London where he remained for two years. While there the King sent him £100, a gift which was later mentioned often when recalling the occasion with gratitude.

Parliament, having taken the Irish war into its own hands, sought the service of Monck who knew the country and had had experience there. His friends persuaded him to accept and Parliament was convinced that he would serve faithfully. Monck seems to have drawn a distinction between bearing arms against the Irish rebels and bearing arms against the King. At any rate, he was serving in Ireland against the Irish during the civil war in England. Once in the service of Parliament, however, military honor led him to be faithful to the government whose pay he took. In a few short months after going to Ireland, Monck was placed in took. In a few short months after going to Ireland, Monck was placed in charge of the government of one of the two parts into which Ireland was divided. Later he was made governor of Carrickfergus.

The execution of the King in 1649 led to divisions among the followers of Parliament. Scottish settlers in Ireland (whose descendants were the "Scotch-Irish" who later settled much of piedmont North Carolina) declared against Parliament and called upon Monck to join them in support of Charles II. Large areas fell into their hands and Monck was obliged to withdraw, at the same time concluding the fighting for a time. He appears to have bargained with his opponents, but his actions, while not pleasing to Parliament, did not bring about his downfall.

When Cromwell invaded Scotland, Monck accompanied him. The troops which were enlisted at Coldstream in 1650 to form Monck's army later were designated the Coldstream Guards, the same unit that today forms the royal guard at Buckingham Palace. After numerous minor victories which brought him to the favorable attention of Lord Protector Oliver Cromwell, Monck was left in Scotland as commander-in-chief. Several remarkable victories earned him the thanks of Parliament, but ill health soon forced his return to England.

In 1652 Monck was appointed a general of the fleet and as such won three outstanding battles against the Dutch, thereby bringing to an end the war with them. Parliament voted him a gold chain valued at £300 and a medal celebrating his victories. Monck declared that he merely was protecting his country against its enemies at sea. On October 1, 1653, he became a member of the House of Commons for Devonshire.

With the coming of spring he returned to command the army in Scotland. There he found numerous supporters of the King, making it necessary for him to set about at once nice to limit their influence. His administration of the local government was just, nevertheless, and well received. As a result, he gained considerable personal popularity among the people there for his stand on many important questions.

In 1655 Charles sent Monck a letter expressing the belief that he still held the old affection for the monarchy and asking him to remain ready for future service. Monck forwarded a copy of the letter to Cromwell with whom he remained on friendly terms

At the death of Oliver Cromwell, Monck pledged his support to his son Richard, the new Protector, as the head of the government was called now. A letter to Richard shortly after he cam to power carried advice on a number of matters. Monck asserted confidence in his ability to suppress both the rising supporters of the King and military revolts. Richard, relying on Monck's support, offered him a seat in the House of Lords, but as he had done when the same honor was offered by Oliver Cromwell, Monck declined, stating that he could not safely leave Scotland because of the unsettled conditions there.

Before long young Cromwell was quarreling with the army and soon also dismissed the members of Parliament. Caught between the jealous rivalries of the army and Parliament, Cromwell attempted to change the assignment of some of its officers. Monck became dissatisfied with such actions within his own command. It was at this point, in 1659, that the supporters of the King began to call on him quietly to seek his assistance in their cause.

Edward Hyde, it seems, was responsible for accepting Monck as the one man best able to manage the King's return to the throne. The case was neatly presented in a letter from a royalist to Hyde. Monck "commandeth absolutely at his devotion . . . a better army than that in England is, and in the king's quarrel can bring with him strength of Scotland," he Charles I. He then ordered the dismissal of the old Parliament, the calling of a new one, and the appointment of a new Council of State to govern for the time being. Monck, as might have been expected, headed the new Council.

Sometime while these events were taking place–we do not know just when–Monck entered into direct communication with Charles. He made certain recommendations such as a plan for a general pardon, the guarantee of all land sales made during the Protectorate, and a promise of freedom to worship. The King accepted these proposals almost as Monck had laid them down.

On April 2, 1660, the new Parliament met. On May 1, it was voted to restore the King and on the 25th Charles landed at Dover. He was met by Monck with expressions of friendship and devotion. At Canterbury the following day Monck was knighted and awarded other honors. The following July he was made Baron Monck of Potheridge. Beauchamp, and Teyes, Earl of Torrington, and Duke of Albemarle. He also received a pension of £700 a year and the estate of New Hall in Essex. Monck used his influence with caution and seems generally to have been well liked. Although the remainder of the army was disbanded, his own regiment, the Coldstream Guards, was retained as the King's guard.

In 1665, despite the plague, Monck remained in London in his capacity as a military officer to maintain order. With the assistance of William Craven, he supervised the measures taken to check the spreading diseases.

During 1666 Monck again put to sea to fight in the war against the Dutch. Following a defeat in June, he won a great victory. News of the great fire brought him back to London where he was extremely valuable in restoring order in the city.

In 1667 Monck was appointed First Lord of the Treasury, but ill health shortly forced his return to New Hall where he died on January 3, 1670. An eyewitness recorded that he died "like a Roman general and soldier, standing almost up in his chair, his chamber open like a tent, and all his officers about him." The King took charge of the funeral, and Monck was buried in Westminster Abbey.

Thomas Grumble, Monck's chaplain, described him as "of a very comely personage, his countenance very manly and majestic, the whole fabric of his body very strong." Just before his death an Italian recorded that Monck was "of the middle size, of a stout and square-built make, of a complexion partly sanguine and partly phlegmatic . . . his face is fair, but somewhat wrinkled with age; his hair is grey. and his features not particularly fine or noble."

Monck's wife was Anne Clarges, daughter of a London blacksmith. In 1633 she had married Thomas Radford, a hat- and perfume-seller and afterwards a servant to Prince Charles. Although she was separated from him in 1649, there is no record of Radford's death before her marriage to Monck on January 23, 1653. Monck and his wife were the parents of two sons: Christopher, born August 14, 1653, who succeeded his father as the second Duke of Albemarle, and who died childless in Jamaica, in 1688, where he had served as governor-general; and George who died an infant. Monck's wife was described as "an extreme good woman," and in connection with the return of the King, "a happy instrument in this glorious work," She died less than a month after Monck and also was buried in Westminster Abbey.

Albemarle County in Carolina, created in 1663 and for a number of years the colony's leading section, but now abolished, was named for

George Monck, Duke of Albemarle. The city of Albemarle in Stanly County, North Carolina, a county in Virginia, and one of the main streets of London also were named for him,

BRINKERHOFF-BOZE FAMILY BIBLE RECORDS

The Tunis Brinkerhoff family record is written in Dutch in a Bible (Dordrecht, 1740); some entries are faded and illegible. The James D. Brinkerhoff records are from a Bible (New York: American Bible Society, 1853) on the cover of which the names "James D. & Maria Brinckerhoff" are embossed in gold. Both Bible are in the possession of the contributor, Mrs. William R. Boze of Rock Falls, Illinois, who has had the Dutch entries in the older Bible translated.

PREFACE.

BY GENERAL R. BRINKERHOFF, OF MANSFIELD, OHIO.

THE oldest institution among men, of which we have any knowledge, is the family. God created Adam and Eve, and planted them Eastward in a garden, and from that day to this the fundamental condition of all human society centers in the family. When that fails everything fails. Under these circumstances it is clearly evident that the first duty, and highest duty, of all wise statesmanship, is to protect, encourage and purify the family. The Bible, as a whole, is made up almost entirely of incidents in the history of a single family. A nation is simply an aggregation of families. When the famlly is weak the nation is weak. If this be true, then it cannot be unwise for a family to consider its conditions and history. In fact, it would seem to be its highest duty to do so, and to put away everything that weakens it, and encourage everything that strengthens it.

In this free and independent country of ours, where the fundamental law of the nation declares that all men were created free and equal, it has been the habit of our people to misapply this declaration to the conditions of nature, instead of the conditions of legislation, where it belongs. The result has been that to many people it is almost a sin to have had a grandfather. This certainly is a grave mistake. Everyone who considers the subject seriously must know, and every student of Biology does know, that the govering forces of every human life are to a very large extent the forces of heredity.

> "For we are the same our fathers have been;
> We see the same sights our fathers have seen—
> We drink the same stream and view the same sun,
> And run the same course our fathers have run."

In short we are borne upon the currents of a stream whose fountain head lies far back in the infinite past. We may deflect that stream somewhat; we may purify it somewhat; we may, by skill and courage, evade its rocks and whirlpools somewhat; but nevertheless down that current we must go, and what we get we must get within its ever-flowing waters.

The questions of heredity, therefore, are serious questions—serious to us and serious to those who shall come after us. If the stream is a bad one, let us endeavor to make it better for our children. If we find an ugly rock in its channel, we can at least mark its location as a warning to those who shall come after us. In this light, therefore, Genealogy is not foolishness, but wisdom. In this light, Genealogy is "philosophy teaching by example." In this spirit, we should consider the facts of our family history.

Our family stream in America has but one fountain head, and that dates back to 1638, when Joris Dircksen Brinkerhoff, with his family, landed in the little city of New Amsterdam. From Joris Dircksen (Joris, son of Dirck), so far as known, without exception, have come all who bear the name, or lineage, of Brinkerhoff upon the American continent. Some spell the name B-r-i-n-c-k and some B-r-i-n-k, and the orthography of either is fully authenticated in ancient documents. In a few manuscripts it is written "Blinkerhoff," and in one instance Van Blynckerhoff. The Flushing branch of the family (descendants of Abraham, son of Joris Dircksen), for the most part, use the "c." The Bergen branch (descendants of Hendrick, son of Joris Dircksen), have almost entirely omitted it. Among the families of the name remaining in Holland the "c" has never been known, and probably it is an American innovation. It is, hovever, a matter of but little importance, for "c" or no "c" we are all descendants of Joris Dircksen as our common ancestor.

In "The Etymological Dictionary of Family and Christian Names," by Wm. Arthur, M. A., the name Brinkerhoff is derived from Brengerhof, the Dutch for "Messenger of the court, or head messenger or carrier; from Brenger, a messenger, hof, a court, or hoofd, chief, a leader."

Among European nations, outside of the Romans, family, or surnames, are of comparatively recent origin. The most ancient names that have come down to us, as, for instance, those of the early Hebrews, are distinguished for their simplicity, a single word only constituting the name, as Adam,

Noah, Abraham, Moses, David, Solomon. In order to particularize, the name of the father was sometimes added, as David, son of Jesse; or the place from whence he came, as Jesus, of Nazareth.

The Egyptians, Assyrians, Babylonians, Persians, and Greeks, had no surnames.

Surnames have originated in various ways. Some are derived from the names of places; others from offices and professions; from personal peculiarities; from the Christian or proper name of the father; from the performance of certain actions; from objects in the animal, mineral and vegetable world, and from accidental circumstances of every varied character.

It is impossible to state at what precise period names became stationary, or began to descend hereditarily. According to Camden, surnames began to be taken up in France about the year 1000, and in England about the time of the Conquest (1066), or a very little before, under Edward, the Confessor. In Ireland surnames were not common until 1465, when, under the reign of Edward the Fourth, it was enacted by statute that every Irishman, dwelling within English jurisdiction, should take a surname. In Wales surnames were still later. In fact, outside of the Latin races, in Europe, surnames did not become common until after the discovery of America, and in Holland they were not universal until within the last two hundred years.

In the adoption of surnames, it became very common to adopt the Christian name of the father, as, for example, in England, Johnson, meaning son of John; in Scotland, Mac meant son; and hence McGowan, son of Gowan; in Ireland, O'Neil, was son of Neil; in Welsh, Ap Howel, was son of Howel; among the Normans Fitz William was son of William; and so in Dutch, Dircksen, son of Dirck.

Among the Dutch, however, surnames were more largely derived from places. For example, Van meant of, or from, and hence, Van Buren meant from the town of Buren; Van Antwerp, from Antwerp, etc.

So, in the same way, occupation, personal peculiarities, or mental characteristic, became a surname; and, therefore, through this form of evolution, at some time, not very distant and in some way, we do not know how, the name Brinkerhoff became a surname, and this publication is the first fruitage of an enterprise which has in view the preservation of the genealogical records of the families which have borne this name upon the American continent.

On the evening of February 29, 1884, upon the invitation of Gen. R. Brinkerhoff, of Mansfield, Ohio, a consultation was held at Room 22, Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, by a number of those who bear the family name, and an organization was formed "for the purpose of preserving the records, history and traditions of all families who wrote their names Brin 'c' kerhoff or Brinkerhoff."

Of this organization, T. Van Wyck Brinkerhoff, of Clove Branch, Dutchess County, N. Y., was elected president, and R. Brinkerhoff, of Mansfield, Ohio, was elected secretary.

Under the direction of this organization, blanks and circulars were sent to all those of the name, as rapidly as they could be ascertained. Some responded promptly, but many, as yet, have made no reply. In some localities special interest was manifested, and especially among the descendants of the Conewago colony, in Pennsylvania, and so much so that a re-union was held on the twenty-first of August, 1884, on the old homestead of Joris Brinkerhoff, the founder of that colony, at which over eighty of the name, or blood, were present, some of whom were from other States. Upon invitation, John H. Brinkerhoff, and his nephew, of Bergen County, New Jersey, also attended, and upon their return they brought such a favorable report of the enjoyments of the occasion, that the kindred in New Jersey determined to have a re-union, which should also be a bi-centennial celebration of the settlement upon the Hackensack, by Hendrick Joersen Brinkerhoff, the father of the entire Bergen branch of the family, and also to extend an invitation to the members of the Flushing branch.

This celebration took place August 27, 1885, and the results were so gratifying to those who attended that a general desire was expressed that a full account of the proceedings should be printed in permanent form for preservation.

At first it was proposed to make this account the chief feature of the publication, and to supplement it with a brief sketch or two of Brinkerhoff biography. Later, however, a change of plan was suggested and adopted, making the biographical part more extended, and the chief feature, with the bi-centennial account, as an appendix. This, while it enlarged the work, and made it more valuable, involved more time in preparation, and has, consequently, delayed the publication until the present time. It has, also, in this arrangement, been deemed desirable to give some of the results of the investigations so far made by the Joris Dircksen Society above referred to. By doing this, it is hoped that the many who have not yet responded to inquiries made, will be induced to do so promptly, as they can now determine very easily, by reference to the genealogical outlines furnished, just where they belong, and will understand distinctly just what is desired.

Of course, under the circumstances, many errors will be found, and all these should be pointed out to the officers of the association, so that they can be corrected in the more complete record to be published hereafter.

From this publication it will be seen that the Brinkerhoff family is one of the oldest in America, and that the record it has made is not unworthy of preservation and remembrance. In fact, we doubt if any family, as an entirety, can show a more honorable record.

The history of our family is in every respect worthy of preservation. All the way down in every generation are men and women of character and influence in the communities in which they lived. We have furnished legislators for States and Nation; clergymen for many pulpits; soldiers for every war of the Republic; judges for the highest Courts, and magistrates without number as Justices of the Peace. Even to-day, in a score of cities, are lawyers, physicians, merchants, manufacturers, editors, bankers, college professors, railroad officials, and artisans of the highest skill, who bear the name of Brinkerhoff, and in the country, in a dozen different States, are farmers of that name who are affluent in broad acres, and honored citizens of the communities in which they live.

Vivian,

It took me a while to track down the best book for your grandson. I got the name of the following from a man who claims to be an expert in the field but he wasn't a historian. He says your grandson should:

1) buy the book, NAMES, GAMES & FANCY PLANES; and
2) Google the 9lst Bomb Group Heavy.

These will point him in the right directions.

I've never heard of the above book. It's name doesn't read like a history dedicated to the 91st to me, so I would suggest that he Google the book before purchasing it. When I wanted to learn about my dad's group, the 95th, I just Googled it and started from there.

Hope everything is going well with you.

Leah

ANCIENT FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS

P. O. DRAWER 1998

22 Oct 2000

Dear Jeanie:

From the Russell Co. VA Court Proceedings for 16 Nov 1816 you will find that 'Jacob King and his wife Mary, formerly wife of Eli McLaughlin, deceased'. The above was sent to me by a Flanagan researcher in Wythe Co., VA. In it, in order to settle this property of Eli's, it lists the children with their spouses!! This is always such a help when the girls marry and you don't know to whom.

From the above document, I found this list of children of Eli and Mary;

1. Israel Cornelius b c 1802 m Elizabeth Dougherty in Scott Co. the 18 Sep 1823. (marriage dates from records of Scott Co., VA)
2. Anne b 2 June 1804 m Joseph Kinser, Scott Co., VA 1819
3. Mary b c 1806 m James Allen, Scott Co., VA 7 May 1830
4. Elizabeth b c 1815 m Philip Flanagan
5. Matilda b c 1815 m William Lambert, Scott Co., 12 July 1830
6. Joseph
7. William

Scott Co., VA was formed from Russell Co, Lee and Washington Cos. In 1814.

The Court Records of Russell Co., on page 350 show that a John Elliott murdered Eli McLaughlin 7 Nov 1816

I have another contact that comes from Israel McLaughlin. He lists his lineage this way:

1. Israel m Elizabeth Dougherty 18 Sep 1823
2. Nathan m Ester Fugate c 1855
3. Israel m Tibiatha Smith 28 mar 1881
4. Nathan m Pearl McAvoy 6 Jan 1907, (his parents).

I just received an e-mail from another 'cuzen'. Most of this I knew but every little new piece of info sure helps sometimes. She saw the 2nd m of old Philip to Ellen Dunn (some have misread the writing as Davis) in Hawkins Co., TN on 19 Feb 1867. She found in the 1860 census of Hawkins Co., TN Ellen age 20 living with Ephraim and Bettie, apparently her parents. In 1870, we have all found Philip, with daughters Mary and Martha and Emeline Coley. (No one can fit Emeline into a family yet, but since my William W. 1st b of Philip and Elizabeth m Amanda Jane Coley, there is some connection).

This correspondant also found in 1870 Ephraim and Elizabeth Dunn and living with them is Ellen FELANEGAN (how is that for butchering?) age 32 and Margaret FELANEGAN age 3. So, it appears (no proof) that Elizabeth Flanagan, wife / Philip died before 1867. Philip and Ellen were not living together in 1870. Ellen and a Francis Stark were m in Hawkins Co., TN 8 Mar 1882.

Now the question arises, were they divorced (no record) or did old Philip just get m in Anderson Co., TN to Parthena and commit bigamy or ??? He and Parthena Hunter were m in 12 Jan 1879 and in 1880 they are listed with two children surname of Hunter, William 12 yrs and Lorry (f) 9 yrs. I later found a m for a Parthena Flinnagan for another man so I'm guessing that Philip died c 1890 in TN.

Hope this fills in the gaps a little. Keep in touch. Vivian Jordan

Dear Vivian,

I'm so glad you were able to find the Wampler book. I have not been able to get hold of it myself. But I did find a Wampler webpage with a bibliography, but it doesn't identify the source for each piece of information. However, I assume that the earliest generations are all from Fred Wampler's book. If you have access to the Internet, the webpage is located at:
selene.biochem.uga.edu/wf-page/index.html

I would love to see some pages from Fred Wampler's book. Is it too large to copy from? Sometimes to really get the important information from a book, you just have to see the whole book. Does the book have the family down through the family of George, son of Hans Michael and father of our Mary (Wampler) McLaughlin?

I'm enclosing a copy of the information that I got from the Wampler webpage data base. Does the book add anything? Does it agree with this information?

I have not found anything else on our families. My Connecticut family burst wide open just before Christmas, and I have been buried under tons of New England pedigrees. It's really different from Virginia research, but it's great fun!

I'm really glad to hear from you, and I'm looking forward to hearing from you again.

Sincerely,

Diane

Diane Keeton

P.S. I'm also sending my notes showing that Hans Peter Sr's wife was Anna Veronica LUNG.

Hans George was known as George, Sr.. This was necessary in order to keep the various other Georges separated. George, SR. has a son named George, known as George, Jr. Michael had a son George, who was a miller by trade, so he was known as George, the miller. George, the miller, had a son George, known as the miller's son!!

George, SR. was a wealthy man. The regional militia often met at the home of this George to drill. He kept a meticulous account of exactly how much he had advanced to each of his sons and to the husbands of each of his daughters, kand he requested the Executors of his will to deduct this amount from the share of each of his heirs. He was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Rural Retreat, Wythe co., VA. He is buried in this cemetery.

Notes for PHILIP PLANCHON:
After Philip lost his farm in Wythe Co., VA, it appears that he went to Hawkins Co., TN, just over the border, where he had relatives living. In 1860, I find him with 'Hardy' and 11 children, my William is in by now, in 1862, 19 Feb. Philip in Clinch Dists. Then in 1870 Hawkins Co., TN, New Canton P.O., he is 72 with what appears to be two of his daughters, guess wife is dead and a grandchild probably, Emeline Coley, 18yrs is living with them. In Anderson Co., TN, I find him with Parthena Hunter and her two children, Wm, 12 and Lorry (f) 9 yrs. Since the two children's last names were Hunter, she was probably a widow. I then found another marriage for a Parthena 'Flenniken' and a Peter P. Simpson dated 20 Mar 1892 in Anderson Co., TN.

IF this is old Philip's wife, Parthena, remarrying in 1892, then guess Philip d between 1880 and 1892. I haven't foung a death record for him yet.

Misc. Records
Also found a record in the NC Archives by a John Flinagin of Lincoln Co., NC" being an enlisted soldier and going to fight for his country for 5 years, did on the 19th day of Aug in 1813, make and ordain his last will and testament. he leaves everything to his mother, Susana Flinaginn, as long as she remains the wife of Philip Flinagin or his widow. But if she marries again, then everything goes to his bros and sisters, and he doesn't name them!!! A 2nd sheet a paper said that in the State of NC., Lincoln Co. on July-Sep 1814, a will of John Flinagin was proved in Court by oath of Jacob Rinhardt and admitted to record.

Also found a Philip Flannagan, 50 yrs farmer, listed in' The Port of Baltimore Passenger Arrivals, 1820-1834'. It also lists a Dolly 40, Mary 18, Pat 25, farmer, Ireland going to West Country. 30 Sept 1827.This apprears to be a family grouping of Philip and Dolly. All this and above need further study.

In 1832, I have found my Philip Flanagan buying land in Wythe Co., VA from Henry and Nancy Wampler for $200.00. (We know that the Mother of Philip's wife was Mary Wampler.) Land was on S. fork of Reed Creek near Miller line and corner of Peter Vaught's. (Both surnames in the Flanagan family)

Could the following possibly be the FATHER of my Philip???? In 'Proceedings of the Orphans court of Baltimore Co., MD, Lib. WB1 , 1778-1787' Hall of Records, Annapolis, MD. pp 67-68 "Philip Flanagan, 8yrs, 2 aug next; Bound to Thomas Burgis, wheelwright; 10 apr 1782" Found in "Obituaries from Early TN Newspapers 1794-1851" by Lucas, Philip Flanagan d Huntsville, on the 14th inst. Hans Michael Wampler (Wampfler)

My ancestor, Hans Michael Wampler was born in Hinsingen, Alsace in 1724. He was christened on 19 November 1724 in Keskastel, Alsace. Alsace is the region, currently in France, along the Rhine River on the German border. This region has been contested many times over history. In 1648 it was part of the Holy Roman Empire, and it was given to France in 1697 by the Treaty of Ryswick and was annexed by Germany in 1871. It belongs to the winner of the latest war between France and Germany, and many of the towns have German names. The Wampfler family moved to Alsace from Diemtigen Switzerland sometime between 1654 and 1695. The earliest ancestor we can trace is Heinrich Wampfler whose son Hans was born in Zwischenfluh, Switzerland in 1616.

Michael came to America with his father, Hans Peter Wampfler (born 1701 in Sparsbach, Alsace, and died in 1749, Lancaster Co. Pa.), mother , Anna Veronica Lung Wampfler, and brothers and sisters in 1741 on the Lydia from Rotterdam to Philadelphia, Pa. They arrived on 29 September 1741. The family settled in Lancaster Co. Pa. They were members of The Hill Lutheran Church in what is now Cleona, Lebanon Co. Pa. The father, Hans Peter Wampler Sr. was a linen weaver in Alsace and in Pa. He purchased 200 acres of land in Lebanon Township, Lancaster Co. Hans Peter Wampfler Sr. died in 1749, and I have a copy of the inventory of his property taken to settle his estate - valued at 184 pounds sterling. It shows he had a loom, but also he farmed his property. Source: Lancaster Co. Historical Society records.

Michael Wampler paid a tax of 4 pounds in Lebanon Township of Lancaster Co. in 1751, so he was a property owner. The family had dropped the " f" from Wampfler by then. Michael married Anna Elizabeth ? (last name unknown) in about 1750 and had a large family, eight children. In 1761 he purchased 158 acres of land in Lebanon Township. In 1765 he and his wife were sponsors or God parents of a child born to Peter and Margaret Kober at The Hill Church. Source: LCHS records.

His older brother, Hans Peter Jr. also had a large family. Four of Peter's children were taken in an Indian raid in the summer of 1757 during the Seven Years War, probably by the Delaware and Shawnee of that area. (Source: History of Lebanon and Dauphin Counties, Pa.) Two Wampler women, Catherine and Christina, were listed in the captives returned to Col. Henry Bouquet's men at Fort Pitt in 1764 at the end of the War. (Source: Correspondence of Sir William Johnson, records of Superintendents Office RG10NAC, 1756C. 1222. Pages 313,314.) Peter moved his family to Frederick Co. Md. in 1770.

In 1771 Michael was living on the frontier in Fincastle Co. Va. which at that time included all of Virginia west of the Blue Ridge Mountains including what are now Kentucky and Tennessee. He is listed on William Crockett's list of tithables, all men over 16 and under 60, in 1771. In 1774 he purchased 270 acres of land, adjoining land he already owned, on the South Fork of Reeds Creek near what is now Rural Retreat, Wythe Co. Va. In total he owned several hundred acres, and there are records of his land transactions up through the mid 1780's. Michael's son, George operated a mill on the Wampler land. In 1783, Michael's brother George moved his family from Pennsylvania to land adjoining Michaels. Sources: 1. Wamplers in America, G. M. Schouse, 1981, Gateway Press, Baltimore Md. and 2. Early Adventurers on the Western Waters Vols. I, II and III, Mary B.Kegicy, F. B. Kegley, and Mary B. Kegley, 1980. Kegley Books, Wytheville Va.

Michael and his son, George, were members of Robert Doack's (or Doak's) Militia in Lord Dunmore's War in 1774. Michael would have been 50 years old and George only 17. Robert Doack was also from Fincastle Co.- near the Cumberland Gap. Doack died in the summer of 1774 and his troops joined either Capt. Smith's Company, Capt. Crockett or Capt. Wm. Campbell. They served in Col. William Preston's Regiment, but when Preston was delayed by family business, they joined Col. William Christian's Command. Col. Christian lead his troops to Point Pleasant on the Ohio at the mouth of the Kanawha River to join Col. Lewis, but they arrived about midnight after the Indians had withdrawn. This was the Battle of Point Pleasant, 9 October 1774. Some believe the Indians withdrew because they knew Col. Christian's troops were coming. (Source: Documentary History of Dunmore's War 1774. Thwaits and Kellogg from Dr. Lyman Draper Papers.)

Michael ended his days in Wythe Co. Va. near Rural Retreat. He founded St. Paul's Lutheran Church there on his own land. He died in 1789 at the age of 65 and is most probably buried at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Michael's life in America spans 1741 to 1789, from before the French and Indian War through the Revolution.

CHAPTER 1

Voyage to America

The 1600s and 1700s were a time of strife and tribulation for much of continental Europe. The deepest source of conflict arose because of religious differences. The German States which make up West Germany and East Germany today were deeply involved in these difficulties. Many historians have devoted much time and effort in documenting this troubled era in Europe. A thorough discussion of this subject is beyond the scope of this book and consequently only that which is necessary to have some understanding of this era will be presented.

In the late 1600s and concurrent with the internal conflicts within continental Europe there was a visit by William Penn of Pennsylvania to the inhabitants of the German States of the Rheinland. He assured these very productive farmers, whose farming efforts were now largely in vain because of the prevalent religious and political wars, that if they were to come to his Province of Pennsylvania, they would be free to worship according to their own beliefs and they would have the civil liberties they desired. The visit by William Penn proved to be very successful in his attempt to get new settlers for his Province of Pennsylvania and by 1683 there was a steady influx of German immigrants to Pennsylvania.

It is worthwhile to attempt to put things into proper perspective with regards to the circumstances faced by the Germans who chose to come to Pennsylvania during this era. The government of Pennsylvania was controlled by British subjects, the English language was used, and English common law was in effect. These German immigrants spoke German, were not used to English common law, and of course, were not British subjects. This was of no little concern to the governmental officials of Pennsylvania and by 1729 the new German immigrants were required by law to take an oath of allegiance to the British Crown and also an oath of abjuration and fidelity to the laws of the Pennsylvania Province. Please be mindful of the courage it must have taken for these immigrants to enter a country where little was known of the governing law, language, or what their fortunes would be. It must be concluded that these people had a strong faith in God which sustained them throughout their voyage to Pennsylvania and throughout their ordeal of entering a land where they did not speak or understand the language and were not familiar with the common laws.

One of the most productive farming areas of the German Rheinland was the Palatinate State and many of these Germans immigrated to Pennsylvania. The nature of the voyage to Pennsylvania is worth noting so that one has some insight into the hardships endured by these sturdy immigrants. Families left their German homeland by boarding a boat on the Rhine River around the first of May and journeyed down the Rhine through many many custom inspection stations. The ships were detained at each custom station and each family had to spend money there for essential items. The trip from their Rheinland homeland to the place where their ship departed in Holland usually took about 4-6 weeks. In Holland there was usually a waiting period of another 4-6 weeks, and again money had to be spent to provide essentials for the family. The ships were headed by an English shipmaster, and after embarking from Holland a stop was made at one of the English ports and again there was a delay of 1-2 weeks as the ships waited for the proper winds. The voyage from the English port to Philadelphia took 8-12 weeks and was, to be sure, a voyage of extreme difficulty. The ships were crowded, there was not proper food or water, disease aboard ship was prevalent and there were no adequate medical facilities. The suffering was enormous and many passengers died. Once the ships arrived in Philadelphia, health officers from the city inspected the ships for persons with infectious diseases and if such persons were identified, the ship was ordered to be removed one mile from the city. The difficulties encountered by these immigrants upon leaving their Palatinate German homeland and traveling to Pennsylvannia were enormous. In fact they are staggering to our present day way of thinking, but it must be remembered these people were not foreigners to difficulties and hard times and they had faith that their new homeland would allow them to farm, prosper, and worship God in peace.

A group of passengers aboard the ship Lydia, with James Allen as shipmaster, docked in Philadelphia in the fall of 1741 after a voyage from Rotterdam, Holland, and with an English port stop in Deal. The passengers were Germans from the Palatinate and among those who had sworn allegiance to the British Crown upon arrival on September 29, 1741, were Hans Peter Wampfler, Sr., Hans Peter Wampfler, Jr., and Hans Michael Wampfler.[1] At this point it should be noted that Wampfler is the correct German spelling of the Anglo-Saxonized surname Wampler. Only male passengers 16 years of age or older were recorded on the passenger lists. On this date in 1741 Hans Peter Wampfler, Sr. was 40 years of age, Hans Peter, Jr. was 18, and Hans Michael was 16.

This book will deal primarily with the descendants of Hans Michael Wampfler. It is exhilarating to try to imagine yourself in Michael's place at this particular time in the port of Philadelphia. You are 16 years old; you have just crossed an ocean and arrived in a strange land; you have seen and perhaps encountered suffering during the voyage; you do not speak the native language; and yet I have no difficulty at all imagining that at 16 Michael is thrilled to be here. For at 16 few people believe that there are insurmountable obstacles, that bad sometimes wins over good, and that the future will not be rewarding. This could be labeled the "faith of youth," and it is inspiring, for as we will see,

Voyage to America

Hans Michael lived and experienced life as few people do.

Note: Thanks to Ms. Rose M. Barnstable of Catonsville, Maryland for some very thorough help in searching the Pennsylvania records.

The purpose of this book is not to detail thoroughly the information pertaining to each of the above children, but rather to follow in a limited way the direct descendants of Hans Michael. However, a few of the abbreviated highlights of some of the above children will be given.

The noted German-American historian, I. Daniel Rupp, wrote a book entitled History of Berks and Lebanon Counties, which was published in 1844. These Pennsylvania counties were at one time part of Lancaster County where the Wampfler (Wampler) family lived. In this book he cites a letter from Hanover township, Lancaster County, dated October 1, 1757, in which it is revealed that four children belonging to Peter Wampler (Jr.) were carried off by the Indians. The children were going to the meadow for the house and destroyed what they could not take away.

Hans Peter, Jr. moved his family from Lancaster County, Pennsylvania to Frederick County, Maryland and eventually descendants of Hans Peter, Jr. joined the various movements to the western parts of the United States.

Hans George Wampfler (Wampler) moved from Lancaster County, Pennsylvania in 1783 to join his brother, Hans Michael, in what is today known as Wythe County, Virginia (In 1783 it was part of Montgomery County). Much more will be presented about Michael later. The lives of the families of Hans George and Hans Michael were closely interwoven and because these two immigrants were the forerunners of the Southwest Virginia, Tennessee, Indiana, and Illinois Wamplers, some attention will be given to Hans George at this time.

Hans George was known as George, Sr. in Wythe County and this label was necessary in order to distinguish among the various George Wamplers in Wythe County around 1783-1815. There were four George Wamplers in Wythe County in this era. George, Sr. had a son named George who was known as George, Jr. Michael had a son named George who was a miller by trade and this George was known as George the miller. George the miller had a son named George, and on the peronal property tax lists for 1802-1804, he was identified as George, the miller's son. No wonder the name George has propagated itself down through Wampler bloodlines A final word on the Georges-- at times on the tax lists for Wythe County George, Jr. was referred to as George (marsh) or George (mash) and George the miller was sometimes identified as George (fowler). Marsh was indicative of the land in which George (marsh) acquired and (mash) was simply indicative of a missing "r" in marsh. Fowler is self-explanatory.

George, Sr. was a very wealthy man and in the 1810 Federal Census he was listed as living alone, but had seven slaves working on his plantation. The regional militia often met at the home of George,

Sr. still stands in Wythe County. His will was probated in 1815 and he provided an equal portion of his estate to each of his children. George, Sr. kept a very meticulous account of exactly how much he had advanced to each of his sons and to the husbands of each of his daughters, and he requested the Executors of his will to deduct this amount from the share of each of his heirs. George, Sr. was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Rural Retreat, Virginia. He was buried in the beautiful cemetery of St. Paul's Church.

CHAPTER III

Hans Michael Wampfler (Wampler), 1725-1789

Hans Michael Wampfler arrived in Philadelphia Sept. 29, 1741, at the age of 16 with his parents, Hans Peter and Anna Veronica Wampfler. Michael and his wife, Anna Elizabeth, were married about 1750. They were members of Hill Lutheran Church in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. On Oct. 6, 1747, Michael and ____ were listed as sponsors for the baptism of Johann Michael Brenneissen, son of Jacob and Veronica Brenneissen, Michael's brother-in-law and sister. The child was obviously the namesake of Hans Michael. Hans is the German diminutive for Johann, which is the English equivalent of John. On April 28, 1750, Michael and his wife were the baptismal sponsors for Anna Elizabeth Brenneissen, the namesake of Michael's wife, Anna Elizabeth. Peter Kober and his wife Margaret also gave their child the name Anna Elizabeth in a baptismal ceremony August 17, 1765, with Michael and Anna Elizabeth Wampfler listed as sponsors. It needs to be emphasized that the Germans settled together and preserved their language, culture, and Lutheran faith for a considerable length of time. The early Wamplers in America undoubtedly spoke very little English for they lived among other German-speaking people. Even after their exodus into Virginia, there is little reason to believe they did not use German more freely than English. The Lutheran Church records were written in German until about 1830 in Wythe County, Virginia and the Wamplers settled in the western part of Wythe County which was almost exclusively settled by Germans. The most noteworthy handicap of not using English as a first language was that the governmental officials in the counties, especially in Virginia, were largely English-speaking and the transaction of legal affairs was most likely very mysterious to Michael and the other Wamplers of this era.

On March 27, 1751, Michael Wampler bought 175 acres of land in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania for 35 pounds (English money) from Susanna Connally, Thomas Doyle and John Hart (Executors of the last will and testament of John Connally, deceased). There is also mention of Michael Wampler in a land transaction between Henry Shenkle and George Dollinger in Lancaster County on March 9, 1764. These dates are useful in establishing that Michael was still in Pennsylvania at this time, but the legal transactions also exemplify something that is very profoundly put forth by Klaus Wust in his book Virginia Germans, i.e., in the legal transacations of early German-Americans, the surname was usually Anglo-Saxonized, but in their church records, the name was usually better preserved in its German form. Thus, Michael's legal transactions displayed Wampler, whereas the Church records often displayed Wampfler. This is only a small perturbation on the surname compared to many almost unrecognizable German-American surnames. For example, in Virginia Koenig became King, Hertzog became Hartsock, Muller became Miller, Gunther became Kinder, Brecht became Bright, etc.

Michael became a citizen of this country, under rule of England, on August 17, 1765, at the Philadelphia Courthouse. The first mention of any Wampler being in Virginia was that of Michael in 1771 when his name was recorded on a list of tithables taken in by Walter Crockett from William Sayers to the head of the Holston River.[2] A tithable for this period was a male person of age 16 years and upwards used for taxation purposes. On this record Michael was listed as Michael Wompler. Again in 1772 Michael was listed on a record of tithables taken in by Walter Crockett. This time the name was spelled Michel Wampler. In 1773 Michael Wampler was recorded as having 2 tithables on Captain Doack's list. This is a significant finding because it tells us that Michael had a son who just turned 16. Based on this and other evidence I believe this son was George, who later became known as George, the miller, and this would establish George's date of birth as 1757.

Michael and his son George were part of a list of men for Robert Doack's Company of Militia dated June 2, 1774, which took part in Lord Dunmore's War.[3] Their names were spelled Mitchael Wambler and George Wambler. There were 112 men altogether on the list and also other family surnames with whom the Wamplers would intermarry in Wythe County such as Staffy (Steffey), Kinsor, and King (Koenig). Michael was 49 years old and George was about 17 years of age at this time. Imagine how Michael must have felt at this stage in his life with the experiences he had already encountered. He was reared in Germany; crossed the ocean in a sailing ship; arrived in America at age 16; lived for sometime in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania where his brother Peter (Jr.) had 4 children carried off by the Indians; moved his wife, children, and their belongings via wagon into what is today known as Wythe County; and now (1774) he was fighting the Indians in Lord Dunmore's War in what is today acclaimed the first battle of the American Revolutionary War. Life was not boring for Michael Wampler.

The Montgomery County Militia for 1781 included George and his brother Michael, Jr.[4] On this list Michael was listed as under age 18. Thus, Michael Jr. was born after 1763. The only Wampler listed in Capt. William Doack's Company of Militia for Montgomery County for August 30, 1780, was George Wampler. George and Michael, Jr. were also listed on Capt. John Ward's Company of Militia for Montgomery County about 1781.

Land records are also particularly useful in following Michael in Virginia. Michael had 116 acres of land surveyed for him in Fincastle County on December 16, 1773. This land was part of the Loyal Company's Grant. Fincastle later became part of Montgomery and Grayson County in 1790. Also on December 16, 1773, Michael had 270 acres of land in Fincastle surveyed on both sides of the south fork of Reed Creek. According to the book entitled Tax List of Montgomery County, Virginia, 1782, by Mary B. Kegley, Michael had 6 horses and 6 cattle while his son George had 2 horses and 4 cattle. At this particular time, George did not own any land himself, but most likely was utilizing part of his father's land.

It is interesting to examine the personal property tax lists in doing genealogical research because it establishes location of individuals, lists tithables, and gives one some perspective as to the fortunes of one's ancestors. The Montgomery County personal property tax lists for 1787 revealed that Michael had 5 cows and 8 horses and also that Michael, Jr. was residing with his father and was over 21 years of age. Michael was listed on the tax lists for 1787, 1788, and 1789 in Montgomery County.[5] The tax record for 1789 was dated March 4, 1789. On April 18, 1789, in Montgomery County Michael Wampler, Sr. sold to Michael Wampler, Jr. and Stophel Wampler (sons of Michael, Sr.) for 37 pounds (English money) many items including several mares and household goods. This list seems to indicate that Michael, Sr. was anticipating that his lifespan was about consumed or that he had plans to rid himself of his personal belongings in order to facilitate moving.

Michael died intestate in 1789 [6] sometime after April 18, but a close examination of the court records leave considerable doubt as to exactly where Michael died. In the most valuable source of early Wampler information I have ever examined, a court case between Christopher Wampler and George Wampler[6], (sons of Michael, Sr.) Michael's wife, Elizabeth, states, "that shortly before her husband left this country he gave a conveyance or bill of sale of his property to Stophel and Michael Wampler and said that he ought to give it to George, but he heard that George intended to take possession of the old place when he was gone and for that reason he would not." Furthermore, in the same trial Esther Kinser, Michael's daughter, stated "that shortly before her father left this country he expressed his uneasiness that he could not settle his affairs, because he had no right himself for his land and his intention was to earn money abroad to pay for his right." The same court record states "that on the ___ day of ___ 1789 Michael Wampler departed this life intestate." There were no entries for either the month or day in 1789 in which Michael died and since the trial involved every member of the family it seems that if Michael had died in Rural Retreat, Virginia (Wythe County) where the family was residing that someone would have known the exact date of death. The only reasonable conclusion that one can deduce from the above documented information is that Michael apparently decided to return to Germany, and it is completely uncertain exactly how far he got or what fate he met which caused his death.

One final note of interest before we leave this most interesting ancestor. Michael Wampler, along with Martin Kimberling, Michael Steffey, and John Phillippi were the Elders who founded St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Rural Retreat, Virginia. The Elders had 100 acres of land surveyed for the church on Sept. 13, 1782. The deed can be viewed in Plat Book B, page 278, at the Montgomery County Courthouse in Christiansburg, Virginia. St. Paul's is still an active Lutheran Church in Rural Retreat, Virginia.

The exact date of death for Michael's wife, Anna Elizabeth, is not known, but it was after October 29, 1807, since she testified on this date in the "Wampler vs. Wampler" case in Wythe County.

CHAPTER IV

George Wampler, 1757-1837

George Wampler was born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania ca. 1757 and moved with his father, Michael, to what is today Wythe County, Virginia. As mentioned earlier George fought in Lord Dunmore's War in 1774. George was known as George (the miller) because of his occupation. The 1815 personal property tax records for Wythe County showed that George owned a grist mill and a sawmill. He was married to Anna Maria ___ about 1778. George was married the second time to Cathy Rynow on Nov. 7, 1819, in Wythe County by the Lutheran minister John Stanger. John Stanger was born in Germany June 10, 1765, and was educated at Tubiugen University, Kirkheim, Germany. Rev. Stanger came to Wythe County before 1790 and performed the marriage ceremony for many Wamplers. He married Magdelene Wampler, the daughter of Hans George, Michael's brother.

The Wythe County court case between Christopher Wampler (appellant) and George Wampler (appellee)[6] was fought from 1807-1812 and provides considerable insight into the various Wamplers involved. Christopher (Stophel) felt he had not obtained a fair share of his father Michael's land, but the court decided he had been treated fairly and reqired Christopher to pay to George the cost he had incurred in defending his case.

Let us scrutinize the testimony of various witnesses to learn more about our ancestors. On Oct. 29, 1807, Kelly Heyton testified that "some short time after he was at George Wampler's and told some of the family that Stophel intended surveying the land to see where his part would come to and was answered by John Wampler, George's son, Stophel need not attempt it for they would keep him off with loaded guns." The exact language and spelling of the court transcript was employed in this quotation and will also be used in all further quotations. The significance of this statement from a geneological viewpoint is that it tells us that George had a son named John. Assuming the witness was telling the truth, the statement also reveals that John was not thinking too highly of his Uncle Stophel's attempt to survey the land. This John Wampler was the first Wampler to settle in Scott County, Virginia and much more will be given on him later.

Elizabeth Wampler, George and Stophel's mother, testified on Nov. 13, 1807, and stated, "she apply'd to George for some maintanance, she says she thinks his reply was that he thought he owed her nothing that he had gained his land himself and gave her nothing at that time but says that some time after three of her sons viz. George, Stophel, and Peter executed an obligation to her for her maintanance; George then told this affiant if she thought proper she might come to his house and if her wish was to let her daughters have her goods she might strip herself he would receive her naked and support her during his life himself and this affiant further saith that she had lived with Stophel Wampler for about ten years and was maintained and supported during that time by said Stophel and further saith not."

George Wampler, Jr., son of George Sr., testified on Oct. 29, 1807, that he had heard Michael say before his death "that a certain field which as the Deponant understands is now in dispute, belongs to George Wampler's share."

Elizabeth Davis, sister to Stophel and George, testified on Oct. 29, 1807, "she often heard Michael Wampler her father in his life time say that all that part of his land should be the share of her brother George which lay on one side of the fence, which fence should be the division line."

Michael Wampler, Jr., brother to Stophel and George, testified on Oct. 29, 1807, "he recollects that his father Michael Wampler often in his life time shewed him that part of the land which his brother George should have for his share and that the said part was to contain all the land lying on one side of the fences which now constitute the division line between the upper and lower place."

On July 2, 1808, Jacob Hitton made a statement which indicated that George had more than one son. He stated "two or three years ago he was at Christopher Wamplers and noticed some person ploughing in the second field on the South side of the branch below the lane, this Depnt. asked said Christopher who was a ploughing, s.d Christopher answered, 'they are George's boys.' He then asked said Christopher if that was George's land, and Christopher replied that it was George's land, and as well as this Depnt. recollects, said Christopher further said, that his father had given it to George to that fence which divides the two fields afore said."

On April 1, 1809, three witnesses residing in Russell County, but formerly of Wythe County, gave sworn testimony to Russell County officials that they were well aware of the dividing line between George and Stophel's land and that all parties had been satisfied until recently. Two of these witnesses were George Wampler and John Wampler, sons of the George Wampler in the court case. Their testimony documents that John and George Wampler were living in Russell County on April 1, 1809.

The intensity of the trial and the financial effect of its longevity on George and Stophel was conveyed in the testimony of John Wolff on July 2, 1808, when he stated, "some time ago, him and Christopher Wampler conversed about the law suit between George Wampler and him, when said Christopher mentioned that since he had begun it, it should go on until one of them was ruined." Also on this same date Jonathan Able stated, "that he had heard Christopher Wampler say, since they, meaning himself and his brother George Wampler had the law suit about the land, it might go on untill one or the other was ruined by it."

The trial was not without some element of wit. From the testimony of George, Jr., who was also known as George (marsh) or George (mash), it was evident he was very strongly supporting George (the miller). Stophel tried to lower the reliability of George (marsh) as a witness by establishing that the character of George (marsh) was not particularly high. Upon inquiry by Stophel, Meikel Neff said that some people talk hard of George (marsh) and some do not. Also William King (Koenig) stated that a good many people talked against George (marsh). Having heard enought of this kind of slanderous talk, George (marsh) asked William Koenig in cross examination, "Did you ever hear any person speak against me as a man of truth except my enemies?" William Koenig answered, "I do not think I have." This is quite analogous to stating that someone is loved by all people except his enemies, but the wit of George (marsh) in the way he phrased the question allowed William Koenig's answer to alleviate the question of reliability in George (marsh) as a witness.

The earliest Federal Census for Wythe County which has survived is the 1810 census. In this census George (the miller) was listed as having one white male 16-25 years of age, 1 white male 46 years of age or older (himself), and white females as follows: one under 10 years of age, two in the 16-25 age bracket and one 46 years of age or older. The Federal Census of 1810 did not list names other than the head of family and it is reasonable to believe the female 46 years of age or older was George's wife, Anna Maria. The male was undoubtedly his son George Christian who was baptized at the Zion Lutheran Church in Wythe County, and whose date of birth was given as May 14, 1794, from the baptismal records. One of the females in the 16-25 age bracket was most likely Elizabeth whose date of birth was April 1, 1790. The female under 10 may be Barbara Wampler who married David Kinzler on June 15, 1815, but this is not absolutely certain. The identity of the other female in the 16-25 age bracket is uncertain.

In addition to the children noted on the Federal Census form for 1810, George had other older children not residing in his household at this time whose relationship to him can be firmly supported. From the trial of Wampler vs. Wampler we know he had a son named John. Inspection of personal property tax lists for Wythe and Russell County leave little doubt that this John is the one who was residing in Russell County in 1807. Also the personal property tax lists for Wythe County in 1802-1804 reveal that George the miller had a son named George. After this date there is no record of this son George in Wythe County. However, from the available Russell County personal property tax lists, there was a George Wampler who resided there in 1807 and in the same district with the above-mentioned John Wampler. To add further evidence to the above-mentioned relationships the tax records showed Christian Wampler residing in Russell County in 1818. Thus, in 1818 there were only three Wampler tithables in Russell County and they were John, George, and Christian.

In order to completely delineate as much information as possible from the personal property tax lists I visited the Archives Room of the Virginia State Library and compiled a record of Wampler tithables for Wythe County from all the available lists for 1793-1820 and also a similar list for Russell County for the years 1807-1829. Several things became clear after many, many hours of studying these lists. One important conclusion was that George (miller) chose to count his tithables (males above 16 years of age) only after they reached the age of 19. Further inspection of the other Wamplers revealed that George (miller) was not alone in this procedure. After I recognized this little disparity with the official regulations, interpretation of the tithables became very supportive that the sons of George (miller) were the John, George, and Christian stated above.

An examination of the court records for Russell County and Wythe County are convincing that George had a daughter named Mary who married Eli McLaughlin in 1802 in Wythe County. Mary married Jacob King after the death of Eli. Eli was murdered in 1816 and John Elliot was charged according to Russell County Law Order Book 5, pages 350, 351. Deed Book 4, page 485, of Wythe County stated that George Wampler was Eli McLaughlin's security to Enoch Franics for the sum of $108.64. In order to indemnify George, Eli conveyed one black mare, five hogs, a feather bed, a woman's saddle, and a spinning wheel to George Wampler on June 10, 1807. Eli and Mary McLaughlin also lived in Russell County in the same era that John Wampler lived there. Further proof that they were closely related was given in Russell County Law Order Book 6, page 124, where it stated that after Eli's death his daughter Anne chose John Wampler as her guardian. Also in Russell County Law Order Book 5, page 342, it stated that John Wampler was bondsman for Martin Knifong who was the administrator of Eli's estate.

Paul Henkel, a traveling Lutheran minister, made a journey in the summer of 1819 through the Lutheran communities of Southwest Virginia, Tennessee. North Carolina and South Carolina. He kept a very meticulous diary of each day's events and on Thursday, July 22, 1819, his records state . . . . held a service in the home of George Wambler.

Apparently George's wife, Anna Maria died between 1811 and 1819 since George got married for the second time to Cathy Rynow on Nov. 7, 1819. Deed Book 9, page 367, for Wythe County indicated that George Wampler (miller) and Catherine, his wife, sold 8 1/4 acres to Peter Wetsell for $82 on March 11, 1823. Deed Book 10, page 28, for Wythe County showed that George Wampler and Catherine, his wife, sold 16 acres of land to George Wetsell for $250 on Feb. 1, 1825. On May 11, 1826, (Deed Book 10, page 427, Wythe County) George Wampler (miller) was indebted to Jacob King (husband of George's daughter, Elizabeth) for $1000 and if he failed to pay the debt by Jan. 1828 then it was to be lawful for 200 acres of George's land to be sold at public auction to raise the money.

George Wampler (miller) was not afraid to take his troubles to court and because of his tenacity there is a great deal of information available in the Wythe County Courthouse on this most interesting man. George got frustrated with the slow movements of the Chancery Court in Wythe County and on Oct. 23, 1822, he pleaded with the Superior Court of Chancery to consider a case between Jacob Kettering and himself which had been initiated in Chancery seven or eight years ago and was still pending. His requests states "your petitioner is between sixty and seventy years of age and the said Kettering is still further advanced in life so that there seems no probability that the said case will be decided if it remains in the said Court during the life of either." Thus, in 1822 we know George was 60-70 years of age (b. 1752-1762) and this is consistent with the previously suggested 1757 date of birth.

With George's regular appearances in Court we are also able to affix his approximate date of death. The Wythe County Court Records show that George was the plaintiff in a court action which began Sept. 10, 1835, Wampler vs. Straw (Stroh). However, on April 14, 1837, the case was dismissed because the plaintiff was deceased. Thus, we know that George died about 1837.

At this time it cannot be stated whether or not George and Catherine had children. The 1820 Federal Census listed several people in George's household, so it appeared as though Catherine had children by a previous marriage.

CHAPTER V

George Wampler, 1780-1870

George Wampler was born Feb. 9, 1780, in Virginia and died July 17, 1870, in Wise County, Virginia. He was the son of George (miller) and Anna Maria Wampler. He married Dancy (Barbara) Steffey on March 13, 1804, in Wythe County. Barbara Steffey was the daughter of Peter Steffey and in Peter's will which was probated Jan. 8, 1836, he left "one dollar and no more" to each of his four daughters: Elizabeth Wampler, Magdaline Corvin, Barbara Wampler, and Mary Call (Wythe County Will Book 4, page 297). It seems as though Peter and his daughters were not on the best terms.

George was listed on the personal property tax records for Wythe County for 1802, 1803, and 1804 and on the Russell County, Virginia personal property tax records for 1807, 1809-1812, and 1817-1825. Some of the county records are missing, but from the available lists it is evident that George's residence was not confined exclusively to these counties for this era. In 1820 the Federal Census lists George Wampler as a resident of Russell County. In 1830 this George was listed as George Wompler on the Federal Census for Lee County. George was again on the Federal Census for Lee County in 1840. George was listed on the Scott County Federal Census for 1850 and on this census form there was an inquiry as to the birthplace of the individual. He stated his place of birth as Virginia and this is of significance because some researchers have thought he was born in Germany. This was partly due to George's death record which stated he was born in Germany. However, the information for his death

CHAPTER VII

John Wampler, 1781-1822

John Wampler was the son of George (miller) and Anna Maria Wampler. He was born about 1781 in Montgomery County, Virginia (later Wythe County) and died in 1822 in Scott County, Virginia. John married Elizabeth Steffey Jan. 5, 1807, in Wythe County, Virginia. They were married by Rev. John Stanger who was a prominent Lutheran minister in the county. To say with certainty who Elizabeth's father was is difficult because there were several Elizabeth Steffeys in Wythe County during this era. Peter Steffey was most likely her father and he names an Elizabeth Wampler in his will which was probated Jan. 8, 1836, in Wythe County. The uncertainty of her father's identity is complicated because Peter wrote his will in 1834, seven years after Elizabeth had remarried to Thomas Saunders and her name was obviously Elizabeth Saunders. The will reflects considerable animosity toward his four daughters and one might suspect he had not even seen or heard from Elizabeth after her second marriage since she was residing in Scott County. Henry Steffey had a daughter named Elizabeth, but she was born about 1770 and was most likely the Elizabeth Steffey who married George Wampler, son of George, Sr., on June 2, 1789, in Montgomery County, Virginia. Peter's daughter, Elizabeth, was born 1784 in Montgomery County, Virginia (later Wythe County) and died Dec. 31, 1862, in Scott County, Virginia. Her mother's identity is uncertain and even though Peter mentions his wife, Margaret, in his will, this was his second wife whom he had married Dec. 2, 1819, in Wythe County. Another piece of circumstantial evidence to support the suggestion that Elizabeth was the daughter of Peter Steffey was that Elizabeth and Barbara Steffey would have been married to brothers, John and George, who chose to leave Wythe County and move the families together to Russell County in 1807. It was not uncommon for brothers of one family to marry sisters of another family in those days of limited travel.

John was listed on the personal property tax records for Russell County for the first time in 1807. Also on the list was his brother George. John was listed on the tax records from 1807 up until 1812 and it is not exactly clear where he was from 1812-1815. His brother, George, was not listed on these records for 1813-1815. It is probable that the two families either returned to Wythe County (and were not listed as head of households for the taxes) or that they were in one of the other neighboring Southwest Virginia counties. There was no record available for 1816 for Russell County. John and George were both back in Russell County in 1817 and they were both listed in the tax records for this county for 1817-1821. John moved to Scott County in 1821. In 1818 Christian, John's younger brother, moved to Russell County and all three brothers resided near each other until John moved to Scott County.

There are several items in the Russell County Law Order Books which help us to reconstruct part of the life of John Wampler. In Russell County Law Order Book 6, page 173, it showed that on Feb. 1, 1820, "Ann McLaughlin being of full age for that purpose with the approbation of the Court made choice of John Wampler for her guardian, who thereupon with George Vaught his security entered into bond according to law." Anne was the daughter of Eli and Mary (Wampler) McLaughlin and Mary was John's sister. Eli was deceased at this time. Law Order Book 5, page 342, indicated that John Wampler was the security for Martin Knifong on Nov. 5, 1816, for a bond of $300 required by him to be administrator of the estate of Eli McLaughlin. One has to have a rather thorough knowledge of the other Wamplers in Southwest Virginia in this era to properly interpret the several references to John Wampler in the Russell County Law Order Books. There was another John Wampler, son of George, Sr., who bought and sold land in Russell County although he was a resident of Wythe County. It is also possible that this John Wampler lived in Russell County from 1805-1807 since there is mention of a John Wampler in Law Order Book 3, page 534, who was involved with road work in August, 1806. It is known that John, son of George, Sr., and his wife Elizabeth (Jansen) sold 570 acres of land in Wythe County in October, 1805, and apparently left Wythe County. Elizabeth (Jansen) Wampler died before 1809 because her father's will in 1809 made provisions for her children. She may have died before 1807 because only one John Wampler was listed on the personal property tax record for that year. One thing is certain, in 1810 John Wampler, son of George, Sr., was back in Wythe County because he was listed on the 1810 Federal Census for that county.

The 1820 Federal Census for Russell County, Virginia listed John, Christian, and George Wampler. John was listed as being 26- 45 years of age (b. 1775-1794) and this is consistent with the 1781 date of birth estimated from the tithables given in the personal property tax records for George (miller) of Wythe County. The 1820 census gave only names for the head of the family. It showed that John had five males in his house other than himself: three were under 10 years of age, one in the 16-18 age bracket, and one in the 16-26 age bracket. The three males under 10 were his sons and will be named later. The other two males may have possibly been two of Eli and Mary (Wampler) McLaughlin's sons. John was shown as having two females under 10 and one female in the 10-16 age bracket. These were the daughters of John and Elizabeth and will be discussed later.

On Sept. 1, 1820, (Scott County Deed Book 2, page 171) John Wampler of Russell County bought 100 acres of land for $400 from Lewis Henry and his wife Ann. Also on this date John Wampler bought an additional 57 acres of land for $400 from the same sellers (Scott County Deed Book 2, page 183). The land was on Copper Creek and is very familiar countryside to the Scott County Wampler descendants of John and Elizabeth Wampler. John moved from Russell County to Scott County sometime between Feb. 7, 1821, (date his taxes were collected in Russell County) and Feb. 22, 1822 (date his taxes were collected in Scott County).

John and Elizabeth had much work to do after their move to Scott County. They had to clear the land, erect a house, and many other difficult tasks. Furthermore, John had moved away from his brothers and there undoubtedly were tasks which required much manpower to perform. This may be partly responsible for John's early death which occurred prior to Nov. 12, 1822.

On Nov. 12, 1822, the inventory list of John Wampler, deceased, was detailed in Scott County Will Book 1, pages 1 and 2. The personal property items of the estate were sold Dec. 13, 1822, (Scott County Will Book 1, pages 3 and 4) and Elizabeth purchased many of the items. Other familiar purchasers at the sell were Martin Knifong and Christian Wampler. The estate had to pay notes due to George and Christian Wampler. One noteworthy item in the settlement of the debts was a receipt due Harry Smith for rent. Harry Smith was a wealthy settler of Russell County and it seems that John rented his land from Harry Smith while residing in Russell County.

The time after John's death was extremely difficult for the widow Elizabeth. She was left with 6 children, away from relatives, and her English was probably not the best. She was the daughter of German-speaking parents, had been raised in a German-speaking community in Wythe County, had moved to Russell County in 1807 with other German-speaking relatives and friends, and now for the first time in her life she did not have the security of being surrounded by familiar customs and language. There was not enough money from the estate sale to settle all the debts and the legal system did not permit Elizabeth to resolve the difficulties until 1827.

Vivian -

I have finally spoken with former Congressman William C. Wampler, Sr. He said he would be glad to share any information he could with you. I can tell you from my brief conversation with him that he is very knowledgeable about his line of Wamplers and obviously has a pretty good grasp of the Southwest Virginia Wamplers generally. For example, he volunteered that the Wamplers in this area emanated from Western Wythe County. Perhaps this is a ready explanation for how our Philip and Elizabeth came to know each other.

He may be contacted as follows:

William C. Wampler, Sr.
118 Jefferson Drive
Bristol VA 24201

Home - 540-466-6169

He confirmed that he had a Wampler family history that was written by a former NASA official who happened to be from Southwest Virginia.

If ever I have an opportunity, I will try to follow-up on the Russell Co. records you have mentioned. However, I doubt that will be real soon.

Let me know if you are successful in breaking new ground on our quest to solve the Philip mystery.

Charles

Dear Vivian,

I saw your query in the NGS Newsletter vol 24, #1 about the Flanagan, McLaughlin, Wampler families. I have a question related to the Wampler line, but not to your inquiry.

I am researching William MORRIS who married Polly Wampler in Lee Co, VA on Aug 5, 1832. This was a second marriage for him. William and Polly had at least one son, William. They were on the Lee Co census for 1840 near the households of George Wampler and John Wampler. William and Polly sold their land in Lee Co and went to Greenup Co, KY where they were on the census of 1850. I have not been able to locate them in any later census.

William's daughter Minerva/Nura (by his first wife, Elizabeth Harris) married Alfred Shepherd, probably in Lee Co, about 1845, and then moved into Lawrence Co, KY by 1860.

I have been trying to learn where William and Polly went subsequent to 1850. Have you heard of this family and do you have any information on them? I would certainly appreciate any help you can give me.

Sincerely,

Linda

CHAPTER IV

HENRY WAMPLER, son of George Wampler, Jr. (33) and Elizabeth Steffey, was born 11 May 1790 in Wythe County, Virginia. He died in 1859 in Lawrence County, Illinois. His will was written 4 Apr 1859 and was presented for probate 6 June 1859. Benjamin Rogers, Jr. was appointed executor of his estate on 24 June 1859 and he made a statement that Henry Wampler died on 30 Apr 1859, but he may have died on 2 May 1859. Among bills outstanding against the estate of Henry Wampler was one presented by Dr. J. C. Bristow, for medical attention. This bill included calls and medication. The first call was made on 17 Apr 1859. The charge was two dollars. Charges were the same for subsequent calls, with the exception of the last call made on 2 May 1859. The charge made for this call only one dollar, with no charge for medication. An appraisal of the personal estate of Henry Wampler was made on 11 July 1859, by Samuel Borden, John Bird, and L. S. Highsmith.

Henry Wampler was married to NANCY BOYD, who was born about 1800. She was born in South Carolina, according to the 1850 Census of Lawrence County, Illinois. The year of her birth has been established by the comparison of her age in Census records of 1820, 1830, and 1840. Nancy Boyd was probably the daughter of William Boyd and Frances Tims. William Boyd wrote his will 4 Sep 1816, in Chester District, South Carolina. Named among the children in his will were: John Tims Boyd, Nancy Boyd, and Hannah Boyd, all under the age of 21 years at that time. John Tims Boyd moved from South Carolina at an early age (probably after the death of his father), to Wythe County, Virginia, where he lived until about 1832, then he moved to Washington Township, Knox County, Indiana.

The marriage record for Henry Wampler and Nancy Boyd has not been located, but they were probably married between the years 1818 and 1820, in Wythe County, Virginia. It was on 10 Nov 1820 that Henry and Nancy Wampler sold 147 acres of land in Wythe County, to Stephen Wampler. They sold 196 acres of land in Wythe County, on 10 Sep 1832, to Philip Flanigan. On the same day they sold 76 acres of land to Peter Vaught. Sometime after the sale of this land, they moved to Knox County, Indiana, where Henry Wampler purchased land in Washington Township on 4 Mar 1833. It is conceivable that Henry and Nancy Wampler traveled to Indiana with her brother, John Tims Boyd and his family in the fall of 1832. They lived in Knox County, Indiana, until 28 Jan 1850, when they sold their land to Henry and Peter Steffey and moved to Lawrence County, Illinois. Henry Wampler was enumerated on 15 Oct 1850 in the Lawrence County, Illinois census, with his wife and nine children. His occupation was given as farmer and his real estate was valued at $1000.00

Children of Henry Wampler and Nancy Boyd:

108. SARAH WAMPLER, date and place of birth unknown. She was probably born in about 1822 in Wythe County, Virginia. She was married to John Snider. Sarah's father, in his will, provided for " . . .William Snider, Ephriam Snider and John Snider to draw their mother's shear , share and share alike."

109. ANGELINE WAMPLER, b. ca 1824 in Wythe County, Virginia; md 14 Jan 1842, in Lawrence County, Illinois, to Henry N. Funk.

110. FELIX WAMPLER, b. ca 1826 in Wythe County, Virginia. The 1850 Census of Lawrence County, Illinois, gave his age as 24 years. He was living with his parents and his occupation was given as wagon-maker.

111. HANNAH WAMPLER, b. 17 Sep 1828; baptized on 18 Oct 1828 at Zion Lutheran Church, Wythe County, Virginia, with the parents as sponsors; md in Lawrence County, Illinois, 6 May 1852, to Samuel Wright.

112. JOHN BOYD WAMPLER, b. 2 June 1831; baptized 20 July 1831 at Zion Lutheran Church, Wythe County, Virginia, with the parents as sponsors;

JOHN WAMPLER, son of George Wampler, Jr. (33) and Elizabeth Steffey, was born 17 Feb 1794, and baptized at Zion Lutheran Church in Wythe County, Virginia, with John Stanger and wife as sponsors. He died in Wythe County sometime between 25 Mar 1844 and 8 July 1844. He wrote his will on 28 Sep 1841, and added a codicile on 25 Mar 1844. The will was presented for probate on 8 July 1844. At the time he added the codicile to his will his handwriting showed a marked deterioration.

John Wampler was married 16 Oct 1814, in Wythe County, Virginia, to SUSANNA MOYER , daughter of George Moyer and Magdalena..... Susanna was born about 1798, probably in Wythe County, Virginia. The exact date and place of her death is unknown, but she probably died prior to 13 Sep 1847, in Wythe County, Virginia. In his will, John Wampler left Susanna all of his plantation with the stipulation that she could, if she wished, sell all of it and move west, or she could sell part of it and put the money to the best use she could to promote the interests of all of his children. He also decreed that if she got married again, his executor should immediately take possession of everything except what the law allowed, sell it and put the money on interest until his youngest child was of age.

George Wampler, son of John Wampler, was named as executor of his father's estate. He declined to serve as executor so Susanna Wampler obtained Letters of Administration and acknowledged a bond in the amount of $4000.00, on 8 July 1844. Her securities were Peter Hackler, George Porter, George Wampler, Abraham Buck and Jacob Stanger.

On 20 Aug 1844, an appraisal of the real and personal estate of John Wampler was made by John Staley, Abraham Neff and Peter Vaught. The real property was appraised at $1,100.00 and there were only a few items listed for the personal property. There was no record of a sale. A search of the land records in Wythe County revealed no land transaction in the name of Susanna Wampler. She apparently chose the option of keeping possession of all of her husband's plantation at that time.

Susanna Wampler was surety on the marriage bond of her daughter, Elizabeth, on 5 Oct 1844. On the marriage bond of her daughter, Rebecca, dated 8 Sep 1846, it was Theodore Wampler, son of Susanna, who was the surety. At this time Theodore was only 18 years of age.

On 13 Sep 1847, George Wampler, the executor named in the will of John Wampler, appeared in Wythe County Court and was granted certificate for obtaining a probate of the will of John Wampler. George was 24 years of age. The bond was in the amount of $3,000.00, with George Porter, Philip Flanagan and Leonard Sutherland, as bondsmen. On the same date the Wythe County Court ordered Jacob Stanger, Peter Vaught, John Copenhaver and Austin Wampler (or any three of them) to view and
